Rhee Reportedly Offers ROK Help To French In Indochina

Hull Is Evasive; Officials Believe Move Is Unlikely

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Diplomatic sources said today that Syngman Rhee, fiery President of South Korea, has offered to send one and possibly two ROK divisions to Indochina to help the French fight Communist-led rebels.

Gen. John Hull, supreme commander of U. S. and U. N. forces in the Far East, promptly denied that Rhee had offered two divisions, but he declined comment on whether one division had been offered. Hull is here for consultations.

There was no official confirmation of the Rhee report. Informed quarters in both Washington and the Korean capital of Seoul were inclined to discount any possibility of South Korean forces joining the battle against the Red Vietminese in Indochina.

Rhee Made Offer To Hull

But the diplomatic sources said Rhee made the offer personally to Hull.

Surrounded by reporters at the White House, where he reported to President Eisenhower on the Korean situation, Hull did not reply directly to a question whether he would approve of sending ROK units to the aid of the French.

He merely said the United States has supported South Korean troops militarily. The ROK army has been equipped by this country and trained by American officers.

Upon his arrival here today after a flight from Tokyo, Hull told newsmen Rhee was "a great patriot" who will continue to "collaborate with the United States all the way through."

Explanations Lacking

The diplomatic sources which reported Rhee's offer of help to the French did not explain how he could afford to make it in view of his statement to an Associated Press correspondent in Seoul yesterday that he is determined to reopen the war against the Chinese Reds in North Korea, with or without American support.

Nor was it explained why he reportedly made the offer to Hull. The general declined today to discuss Indochina, saying he had no authority or responsibility for that area.

French Planes Pound Vietminh

SAIGON, Indochina, Feb. 11 (AP)—French warplanes ranged north of Luang Prabang today to pound an invasion force of 10,000 Vietminh reported less than two days' march from the imperiled royal Laotian capital.

The planes strafed and firebombed the crack Communist-led 308th Division moving in north of the Nam Nga river, about 35 miles from King Sisavong's capital city which the French have vowed to defend.

French ground troops probed the jungles northeast of Luang Prabang trying to ferret out the position of some 1,500 regional Vietminh elements who have edged to within nine miles or less of the royal seat.

In the past 24 hours the French have reported only one clash with the advance rebel force on the banks of the Nam Suong River, about 10 miles northeast of the capital.

This Red vanguard was believed paving the way for the main invasion force which has advanced 19 miles within 24 hours. If it keeps up this pace, the 308th should reach Luang Prabang by Saturday.

Israeli Woman Held As Smuggler

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP) — A young Israeli woman, nabbed as she arrived by plane, was held in $40,000 bail today as an alleged smuggler of diamonds worth more than $100,000. She claimed she was only a courier acting for a $100 fee.

The woman was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Edward Fay as Ester Kaz, 28, of Israel.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Maurice Z. Bungard told Fay the gems were found under the woman's clothing. He said they weighed nearly 1,000 carats and were worth $106,000. He said the duty would have been more than $9,000.

Shouldn't Cry "Foul," Carlson Tells Demos

SPEECH PROBLEM — The State Department revealed yesterday that R. W. Scott McLeod (above) received conflicting advice as to whether he was subject to the Hatch "no politics" Act. GOP Orators Not Taking Ike Advice To Soften Punches

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — President Eisenhower failed to make much headway today with selling Senate Republicans his advice that the GOP soften its political punches against Democrats whose votes are needed to help his program along in Congress.

One of the President's closest political allies, Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), took the Senate floor to say he didn't think the Democrats "should be crying foul" because of a political pasting from the Republicans.

The head of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, Sen. Ferguson of Michigan, said there isn't much chance of a political armistice he said the Democrats seem to want.

Their remarks, coupled with continuing blasts from GOP senators on the oratorical firing line, made it evident Eisenhower was right in telling a news conference yesterday he could see no way he could tone down Republican attacks except from his own executive family.

Demo Outcries Rise

In the light of outcries from Democrats that Republicans are trying to label all of them left wingers and political sadists stained with the red of communism, Eisenhower spoke out yesterday against extreme partisanship in these times. He said he would advise his executive family against indulging in it and that this went for the Republican National Committee chairman, Leonard W. Hall.

Yet, under the National Committee's auspices, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) is still on a speaking foray in which the theme has been "20 years of treason" under the last two Democratic administrations.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), also under National Committee sponsorship, is stumping his home state saying he intends to "tell the truth regardless of politics."

"Matter Of Record"

In addition, one of the Eisenhower executive family, R.W. Scott McLeod, State Department security officer, is on the road on a political speaking sortie.

Carlson, who was by Eisenhower's side through the 1952 presidential campaign, said he was in accord with the chief executive's policy of "sponsoring a movement to be kind to Democrats." He told the Senate he has many fine Democratic friends he would not want to see "unduly criticized or castigated."

But he said he considered it a matter of record that previous administrations made "an effort to shield Communists" and that he hoped the GOP wouldn't be criticized for pointing it out.

Plane Crash Kills Eight

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 11 (AP)—Eight persons aboard a military transport perished yesterday in the Peruvian jungles about 225 miles northeast of here.

The newspaper El Comercio reported the plane, carrying a crew of three and five passengers, crashed and burned 3½ miles from the jungle airport at Puerto Inca.

Strangler Kills Woman Claimant To Title, Daughter

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP)—An elderly woman claimant to a ladyship title and her daughter were killed by a stealthy strangler early today in the time-stained Victorian mansion they operated as an old folks home.

The older victim was the widow of Thomas Chalmers Menzies who claimed to be the 10th Baronet Menzies—a claim rejected by the Home Office nearly a quarter century ago.

Scotland Yard identified the slain women as Lady Menzies, 68, and Mrs. Isobel Veronica Chesney, 42. Their home for the aged is in a run-down section of London that once was fashionable.

The old woman was battered on the head as well as strangled. Her daughter was surprised in her bath and choked to death. A pathologist's preliminary report suggested a sexual assault may have been attempted on one of the victims.

Detectives working to untangle the mystery, gave out only the sketchiest accounts of the womens' backgrounds.

Neighbors and the old people who lived in the house described the victims as kindly, soft-spoken women who did good work for the neighborhood of Ealing.

The killings took place in the early morning hours but the bodies were not discovered until more than 12 hours later when a housemaid stumbled on them.

The strangler had worked so quietly that none of the other elderly residents of the house was disturbed.

One-Eared Lincoln Statue Intrigues Capitol Visitors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — Sightseers have often puzzled over the one-eared marble head of Abraham Lincoln that has been exhibited in the Capitol Rotunda for 46 years.

David Lynn, Capitol architect, dug into his files today and came up with sculptor Gutzon Borglum's own explanation for the omission of Lincoln's left ear from the famous work of art.

It was not an oversight. In fact, Borglum slighted the whole left side of Lincoln's face to emphasize the right side. He explained this in a letter to a congressional committee in 1908:

"Lincoln's face was so much more developed on the right side that I have carved this head in the same way—that is, developing that side—and any place chosen to place it should give you an opportunity to so read it."

Congress was impressed by the massive head and ordered it placed on a pedestal, also carved out of marble by Borglum, in a conspicuous spot beneath the vast Capitol dome.

That Borglum achieved the realistic effect he thought was attested by Robert Lincoln who, in a letter to the sculptor, called the head "the most extraordinarily good portrait of my father I have ever seen."

Borglum lent the head to the White House for the Emancipator's 100th birthday anniversary in 1908. President Theodore Roosevelt afterward wrote the sculptor:

"The more I look at it and the more I have thought over it since, the more it has imprest (sic) itself on me."

Opinions Conflict If McLeod Comes Under Hatch Act

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The State Department disclosed today that before Security Chief R. W. Scott McLeod set out on his stumping tour he got conflicting advice as to whether he was subject to the Hatch "no politics" Act.

A civil service commissioner told him the act applied to him; the State Department legal officer held that it did not.

McLeod's trip to the West has drawn angry fire from some Democrats who contend that his role as a GOP campaign speaker might lead to the injection of politics into critical questions involving security.

State Dept. Reversed

Reversing an earlier statement, the State Department said Civil Service Commissioner George Moore notified McLeod that he came within the provisions of the 1939 Hatch law banning political activities by most federal employes.

The department had said previously the Civil Service Commission had ruled that McLeod's speaking tour on behalf of the Republican National Committee would not violate the Hatch Act.

Asked about this conflict, Press Officer Jameson Parker declined comment.

Parker also said he would have no comment on a conflict between the Civil Service Commission's opinion and an opinion by the department's legal adviser, Herman Phleger. Phleger ruled more than a month ago that McLeod was "not subject to the provisions of the Hatch Act."

CSC Issues Statement

Almost simultaneous with the State Department's latest word on the subject, the Civil Service Commission issued its own statement. It said McLeod had asked the commission about his status "and was advised that in (the commissioner's) opinion his position was subject to the Hatch Act."

The commission indicated that the next move, if any, is up to Secretary of State Dulles whether any disciplinary action should be taken against McLeod.

Everest Scalers Honored By Ike

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The conquerors of Mt. Everest accepted a medal from President Eisenhower today and then informed newsmen they aim to tackle an even tougher mountain where "the abominable snowman" is said to roam.

Eisenhower told members of the British expedition it was "a very great privilege to act for the American people" in presenting the National Geographic Society's highest award, the Hubbard Medal.

Later, Sir Edmund Hillary, one of the two men to set foot on the top of Mt. Everest, said he's itching to take a crack at Kangchengjunga, third highest mountain in the world.

Brigadier Sir John Hunt, who led the Mt. Everest expedition, said he made some preliminary explorations of Kangchengjunga, which lies in the southeastern end of the Himalayas, back in 1937.

It was then, he said, that he saw tracks of "the abominable snowman."

Poisoner Committed To Mental Hospital

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Poetry-reading Harlow Fraden, 22, was committed to the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane today for the poison cocktail killing of his parents last August.

Fraden was indicted on a first degree murder charge, but will not have to stand trial as long as he is a patient at the institution. The indictment will remain in force, however, for use if he ever is released.

Fraden's alleged accomplice, Dennis Wepman, 20, who has been found sane, still faces trial on a first degree murder indictment. He is being held without bail in Bronx County jail.

Ike Will Send Governors On Korea Mission

Group Will Appraise Situation For Benefit Of American People

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — President Eisenhower, in a move believed unprecedented, has asked a group of state governors to go to Korea and appraise the situation there for the benefit of the American people.

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, chairman of the Governors' Conference, announced in Denver that he will lead a delegation to Korea about April 1.

Eisenhower's invitation was interpreted here as another move in his program to bring state executives into closer relationship to major national problems. The White House already is cooperating in plans for a three-day meeting of the 48 governors here late in April to discuss national security and other problems.

Precedent To Be Set

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that so far as he knew this is the first time the federal government has initiated an inspection trip abroad by a representative group of governors.

The President wrote Thornton that he thought a short visit to Korea by a select group of governors who are close to the American people would be "highly beneficial."

"Their personal evaluation of our progress (in Korea) would provide the public with the essential knowledge and broad understanding to which it is entitled," Eisenhower said.

Four Governors Ready To Go

Thornton told reporters that so far four governors have agreed to make the trip with him. He listed them as Govs. Allan Shivers of Texas, John Fine of Pennsylvania, Johnston Murray of Oklahoma and Robert Kennon of Louisiana, all members of the executive committee of the Governors' Conference.

Other committee members are Govs. William Bearsley of Iowa, James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, John Lodge of Connecticut and Lawrence Weatherby of Kentucky.

Red Strikes Sweep Italy

ROME, Feb. 11 (AP)—Communist-led strikes paralyzed Italy's industrial north today, underscoring the number one problem facing the day-old regime of Premier Mario Scelba. The Italian Reds consider Scelba their arch foe.

The wave of 24-hour general walkouts which began yesterday in Genoa shifted to Milan and factory-rich Lombardy. They were due to hit Rome next Tuesday, only 48 hours before Scelba's shaky government faces its first parliamentary test.

The strikes opened the Communist-led Italian Labor Federation's winter offensive for higher pay. But the Communist party has threatened even more direct action against Scelba. Plans were reportedly under way for nationwide Red demonstrations against Scelba's premiership. Scelba fought both Communists and extreme rightists in his days as interior minister under Alcide de Gasperi.

Paraplegic War Vet Slays Close Friend

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 11 (AP)—A paraplegic war veteran drove up to police headquarters here in a specially equipped automobile and told police "I've just shot and killed a man."

The veteran, Allen T. Heppert, 40, paralyzed as a result of a wound from a German artillery shell in Sicily in 1943, was charged with murder and released on $5,000 bond.

Victim of the shooting last night was Mark A. Cary Jr., 31, a close friend of Heppert's.

Italians Sent Message Of Blessing By Pope

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 11 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, reported on the road to recovery after three weeks of dangerous illness, marked his improvement today by sending a message of blessing to the Italian people.

The message, sent to President Luigi Einaudi, marked the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Lateran Pacts by Italy and the Vatican which established the sovereignty of Vatican City.

Slayer Screams

Slew 'Two Reds,' Bodenheim Killer Says; Asks Medal

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The confessed slayer of poet Maxwell Bodenheim and his wife—in a display of "madness" which did not entirely convince police—cried out today that he deserved a medal for killing "two Communists."

"I did the country a favor," shouted 25-year-old Harold Weinberg, a former mental patient. "I killed two Communists. I ought to get a medal from Washington, D. C."

Smiling at times and again atremble, Weinberg interrupted a court appearance to break into "The Star-Spangled Banner." Then he demanded of Felony Magistrate Louis A. Pagnucco:

"Are you a Communist?"

Pagnucco ignored the question, and sent the ragged Greenwich Village dishwasher off to Bellevue Hospital for a mental examination. He is due back in court Feb. 26.

Police voiced suspicion that Weinberg is feigning madness to escape the electric chair for the savage twin killings of last Saturday night.

"They can't execute you for killing Communists, can they?" he demanded of detectives at one point.

Weinberg's display surpassed in its lurid appeal even the realism in the writings of Bodenheim, the jazz age poet of passion and violence.

Bodenheim, 58, and his 35-year-old third wife, Ruth Fagan Bodenheim, found shelter last week in Weinberg's shabby $5 a week tenement room on Third Ave. near the Bowery.

The one-time literary rage of the 1920's, reduced by alcohol to a Greenwich Village stumblebum, was found shot to death in the room Sunday. His wife lay dead beside him of stab wounds in the back.

Arrival Of Little Pigg Is Surprise

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 11 (AP)—The 48-year-old wife of a 79-year-old pensioner came to a hospital here last week expecting to undergo a tumor operation and left today the mother of a healthy seven-pound boy.

The surprised father explained this was his first child and said he was flabbergasted when a stepdaughter brought the glad tidings back to his Antlers, Okla., home. The baby was born Sunday.

George Washington Alexander Pigg quickly named his new son George Washington Pigg Jr.

Senate Treaty Battle Renewed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) told the Senate today that he doesn't want "any president to make an agreement with Turkey that will preclude me from killing a cat in my back alley at night."

And, he shouted: "Neither do I want him to negotiate an agreement with India that will preclude me from butchering a cow in my own barnyard."

George spoke in defense of his move to revise the controversial Bricker amendment. He took the floor after Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) made a speech opposing George's substitute version as well as the original amendment to regulate the president's treaty making power offered by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

Votes on the proposals are set for next week. Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore), has said he will move to send the whole matter back to committee then.

Honeymooners Snowbound Three Weeks Cheat Death

CLIFTON, Ariz., Feb. 11 (AP)—A honeymoon couple married Jan. 6, who were snowbound north of here for three weeks leave for Williams Air Force Base near Chandler today where the husband, an Air Force lieutenant, will report their rugged adventure to authorities.

Lt. Fred G. Reichard, of Puerto Rico, says he probably has been absent without leave, but he feels he and his wife are lucky to be alive after their adventure. They had been snowbound from Jan. 17 when their car became stuck north of Rose Peak on Highway 666 until they were picked up by a rancher last Sunday after they had started to walk out.

"We prayed every day," Lt. Reichard said, "there is no way to describe the emotions of first seeing someone after you haven't seen anyone for 18 days and you know your very life depends on finding help."

The couple was brought here Monday, tired and hungry, by Bob Balke, owner of the 6K6 ranch, who found them walking about 30 miles from where their car was stuck in mountain snow. They had battled cold, snowstorms, hunger and thirst in their long walk to civilization.

All the pair had to eat during the three weeks was two cans of deviled ham, a half glass of strawberry jam, 10 lumps of sugar, a fifth of rum, a pint of sweet table wine, two boxes of melba toast and a can of apricot juice. That ran out even after careful rationing.

Secret Talks Make "Shade Of Progress"

Hush-Hush Meeting Today Will Precede Austria Discussion

BERLIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—Under a thick cloak of secrecy, the Big Four foreign ministers argued today on peace measures for Asia. A Western source said "a shade of progress" was made.

The secret talk, second of the week, lasted 4 hours and 15 minutes, with only a noncomittal 31-word communique issued jointly afterward.

But Soviet Russia and the Western powers agreed to take up the same topic in a third hush-hush meeting tomorrow morning when they will go on to the Austrian independence treaty in an unrestricted afternoon session.

The United States, Britain and France tried again today to crack Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's insistence on bringing Red China into a Big Five conference on sweeping global issues.

Soviet Influence Sought

But the West admittedly sought to get Russian influence to bear on Peiping to speed up the Korean peace conference and to stop supplying Communist-led guerrilla armies in Indochina as a prelude to peace negotiations there.

One big stumbling block to the Korean peace conference was Russia's continued refusal to set alongside Red China and North Korea on the "aggressor" side of the table as proposed by the United Nations.

A Western source refused to give details about today's "shade of progress." It may have been simply that all the answers were not finally in to each side's propositions and, in lieu of that, hope has not been completely extinguished.

Talks Seen Ending Next Week

The source forecast the Berlin conference would run to the end of next week. Previously, some Western diplomats expected a breakup by next Wednesday or Thursday.

Bidault is under great pressure at home to start talks on settlement of the Indochina War. He went into today's meeting determined to pin Molotov down to a clear position on this.

With Dulles and Eden, Bidault held the view Red China must first demonstrate good faith in helping end Asia's "little war" before claiming equality as a great power.

From another informed Western quarter came an admonition tonight not to be "prematurely optimistic" because the Big Four's Asian debate would continue at least another day.

Conferees Agree On Pension Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Senate-House conferees today reached agreement on a bill liberalizing pensions for the 96 senators and 435 House members.

The measure also carries increased pensions for the 4,300 congressional employes.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me), head of the Senate conferees, said there was unanimous agreement.

As originally passed by the Senate last year, the bill only raised the legislative employes' pensions.

The House changed it last week by adding several provisions which would boost pension benefits for senators and representatives.

Under present law, members of Congress can get a pension at age 62 after six years of service. It is figured on the basis of two and one-half per cent of an average salary over the entire period of service, multiplied by years of service. To be eligible, they contribute six per cent of their salaries to the retirement fund.

$100,500 In Bonds Strayed Or Stolen

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP) — A messenger for a Wall Street brokerage firm told police today $100,500 worth of negotiable U. S. Treasury bonds had disappeared from his briefcase.

Arthur Leonard, 65, a retired city fireman now employed by Childs & Co., said he started out this morning with a large number of securities for delivery to seven places in the financial area.

At his fifth stop, he said, he discovered that a $100,000 bond and five others for $100 each were missing.

That Borglum achieved the realistic effect he thought was attested by Robert Lincoln who, in a letter to the sculptor, called the head "the most extraordinarily good portrait of my father I have ever seen."

Borglum lent the head to the White House for the Emancipator's 100th birthday anniversary in 1908. President Theodore Roosevelt afterward wrote the sculptor:

"The more I look at it and the more I have thought over it since, the more it has imprest (sic) itself on me."

Opinions Conflict If McLeod Comes Under Hatch Act

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The State Department disclosed today that before Security Chief R. W. Scott McLeod set out on his stumping tour he got conflicting advice as to whether he was subject to the Hatch "no politics" Act.

A civil service commissioner told him the act applied to him; the State Department legal officer held that it did not.

McLeod's trip to the West has drawn angry fire from some Democrats who contend that his role as a GOP campaign speaker might lead to the injection of politics into critical questions involving security.

State Dept. Reversed

Reversing an earlier statement, the State Department said Civil Service Commissioner George Moore notified McLeod that he came within the provisions of the 1939 Hatch law banning political activities by most federal employes.

The department had said previously the Civil Service Commission had ruled that McLeod's speaking tour on behalf of the Republican National Committee would not violate the Hatch Act.

Asked about this conflict, Press Officer Jameson Parker declined comment.

Parker also said he would have no comment on a conflict between the Civil Service Commission's opinion and an opinion by the department's legal adviser, Herman Phleger. Phleger ruled more than a month ago that McLeod was "not subject to the provisions of the Hatch Act."

CSC Issues Statement

Almost simultaneous with the State Department's latest word on the subject, the Civil Service Commission issued its own statement. It said McLeod had asked the commission about his status "and was advised that in (the commissioner's) opinion his position was subject to the Hatch Act."

The commission indicated that the next move, if any, is up to Secretary of State Dulles whether any disciplinary action should be taken against McLeod.

Everest Scalers Honored By Ike

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The conquerors of Mt. Everest accepted a medal from President Eisenhower today and then informed newsmen they aim to tackle an even tougher mountain where "the abominable snowman" is said to roam.

Eisenhower told members of the British expedition it was "a very great privilege to act for the American people" in presenting the National Geographic Society's highest award, the Hubbard Medal.

Later, Sir Edmund Hillary, one of the two men to set foot on the top of Mt. Everest, said he's itching to take a crack at Kangchengjunga, third highest mountain in the world.

Brigadier Sir John Hunt, who led the Mt. Everest expedition, said he made some preliminary explorations of Kangchengjunga, which lies in the southeastern end of the Himalayas, back in 1937. It was then, he said, that he saw tracks of "the abominable snowman."

No white man has ever seen the "snowman," whom the Nepalese natives call "Yeti." But Sir John said he saw tracks left by the thing.

Poisoner Committed To Mental Hospital

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Poetry-reading Harlow Fraden, 22, was committed to the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane today for the poison cocktail killing of his parents last August.

Fraden was indicted on a first degree murder charge, but will not have to stand trial as long as he is a patient at the institution. The indictment will remain in force, however, for use if he ever is released.

Fraden's alleged accomplice, Dennis Wepman, 20, who has been found sane, still faces trial on a first degree murder indictment. He is being held without bail in Bronx County jail.

Ike Will Send Governors On Korea Mission

Group Will Appraise Situation For Benefit Of American People

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — President Eisenhower, in a move believed unprecedented, has asked a group of state governors to go to Korea and appraise the situation there for the benefit of the American people.

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, chairman of the Governors' Conference, announced in Denver that he will lead a delegation to Korea about April 1.

Eisenhower's invitation was interpreted here as another move in his program to bring state executives into closer relationship to major national problems. The White House already is cooperating in plans for a three-day meeting of the 48 governors here late in April to discuss national security and other problems.

Precedent To Be Set

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that so far as he knew this is the first time the federal government has initiated an inspection trip abroad by a representative group of governors.

The President wrote Thornton that he thought a short visit to Korea by a select group of governors who are close to the American people would be "highly beneficial."

"Their personal evaluation of our progress (in Korea) would provide the public with the essential knowledge and broad understanding to which it is entitled," Eisenhower said.

Four Governors Ready To Go

Thornton told reporters that so far four governors have agreed to make the trip with him. He listed them as Govs. Allan Shivers of Texas, John Fine of Pennsylvania, Johnston Murray of Oklahoma and Robert Kennon of Louisiana, all members of the executive committee of the Governors' Conference.

Other committee members are Govs. William Bearsley of Iowa, James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, John Lodge of Connecticut and Lawrence Weatherby of Kentucky.

Red Strikes Sweep Italy

ROME, Feb. 11 (AP)—Communist-led strikes paralyzed Italy's industrial north today, underscoring the number one problem facing the day-old regime of Premier Mario Scelba. The Italian Reds consider Scelba their arch foe.

The wave of 24-hour general walkouts which began yesterday in Genoa shifted to Milan and factory-rich Lombardy. They were due to hit Rome next Tuesday, only 48 hours before Scelba's shaky government faces its first parliamentary test.

The strikes opened the Communist-led Italian Labor Federation's winter offensive for higher pay. But the Communist party has threatened even more direct action against Scelba. Plans were reportedly under way for nationwide Red demonstrations against Scelba's premiership. Scelba fought both Communists and extreme rightists in his days as interior minister under Alcide de Gasperi.

Paraplegic War Vet Slays Close Friend

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 11 (AP)—A paraplegic war veteran drove up to police headquarters here in a specially equipped automobile and told police "I've just shot and killed a man."

The veteran, Allen T. Heppert, 40, paralyzed as a result of a wound from a German artillery shell in Sicily in 1943, was charged with murder and released on $5,000 bond.

Victim of the shooting last night was Mark A. Cary Jr., 31, a close friend of Heppert's.

Italians Sent Message Of Blessing By Pope

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 11 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, reported on the road to recovery after three weeks of dangerous illness, marked his improvement today by sending a message of blessing to the Italian people.

The message, sent to President Luigi Einaudi, marked the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Lateran Pacts by Italy and the Vatican which established the sovereignty of Vatican City.

Slayer Screams

Slew 'Two Reds,' Bodenheim Killer Says; Asks Medal

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The confessed slayer of poet Maxwell Bodenheim and his wife—in a display of "madness" which did not entirely convince police—cried out today that he deserved a medal for killing "two Communists."

"I did the country a favor," shouted 25-year-old Harold Weinberg, a former mental patient. "I killed two Communists. I ought to get a medal from Washington, D. C."

Smiling at times and again atremble, Weinberg interrupted a court appearance to break into "The Star-Spangled Banner." Then he demanded of Felony Magistrate Louis A. Pagnucco:

"Are you a Communist?"

Pagnucco ignored the question, and sent the ragged Greenwich Village dishwasher off to Bellevue Hospital for a mental examination. He is due back in court Feb. 26.

Police voiced suspicion that Weinberg is feigning madness to escape the electric chair for the savage twin killings of last Saturday night.

"They can't execute you for killing Communists, can they?" he demanded of detectives at one point.

Weinberg's display surpassed in its lurid appeal even the realism in the writings of Bodenheim, the jazz age poet of passion and violence.

Bodenheim, 58, and his 35-year-old third wife, Ruth Fagan Bodenheim, found shelter last week in Weinberg's shabby $5 a week tenement room on Third Ave. near the Bowery.

The one-time literary rage of the 1920's, reduced by alcohol to a Greenwich Village stumblebum, was found shot to death in the room Sunday. His wife lay dead beside him of stab wounds in the back.

Arrival Of Little Pigg Is Surprise

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 11 (AP)—The 48-year-old wife of a 79-year-old pensioner came to a hospital here last week expecting to undergo a tumor operation and left today the mother of a healthy seven-pound boy.

The surprised father explained this was his first child and said he was flabbergasted when a stepdaughter brought the glad tidings back to his Antlers, Okla., home. The baby was born Sunday.

George Washington Alexander Pigg quickly named his new son George Washington Pigg Jr.

Senate Treaty Battle Renewed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga) told the Senate today that he doesn't want "any president to make an agreement with Turkey that will preclude me from killing a cat in my back alley at night."

And, he shouted: "Neither do I want him to negotiate an agreement with India that will preclude me from butchering a cow in my own barnyard."

George spoke in defense of his move to revise the controversial Bricker amendment. He took the floor after Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) made a speech opposing George's substitute version as well as the original amendment to regulate the president's treaty making power offered by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

Votes on the proposals are set for next week. Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore), has said he will move to send the whole matter back to committee then.

Honeymooners Snowbound Three Weeks Cheat Death

CLIFTON, Ariz., Feb. 11 (AP)—A honeymoon couple married Jan. 6, who were snowbound north of here for three weeks leave for Williams Air Force Base near Chandler today where the husband, an Air Force lieutenant, will report their rugged adventure to authorities.

Lt. Fred G. Reichard, of Puerto Rico, says he probably has been absent without leave, but he feels he and his wife are lucky to be alive after their adventure. They had been snowbound from Jan. 17 when their car became stuck north of Rose Peak on Highway 666 until they were picked up by a rancher last Sunday after they had started to walk out.

"We prayed every day," Lt. Reichard said, "there is no way to describe the emotions of first seeing someone after you haven't seen anyone for 18 days and you know your very life depends on finding help."

The couple was brought here Monday, tired and hungry, by Bob Balke, owner of the 6K6 ranch, who found them walking about 30 miles from where their car was stuck in mountain snow. They had battled cold, snowstorms, hunger and thirst in their long walk to civilization.

All the pair had to eat during the three weeks was two cans of deviled ham, a half glass of strawberry jam, 10 lumps of sugar, a fifth of rum, a pint of sweet table wine, two boxes of melba toast and a can of apricot juice. That ran out even after careful rationing.

Secret Talks Make "Shade Of Progress"

Hush-Hush Meeting Today Will Precede Austria Discussion

BERLIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—Under a thick cloak of secrecy, the Big Four foreign ministers argued today on peace measures for Asia. A Western source said "a shade of progress" was made.

The secret talk, second of the week, lasted 4 hours and 15 minutes, with only a noncomittal 31-word communique issued jointly afterward.

But Soviet Russia and the Western powers agreed to take up the same topic in a third hush-hush meeting tomorrow morning when they will go on to the Austrian independence treaty in an unrestricted afternoon session.

The United States, Britain and France tried again today to crack Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's insistence on bringing Red China into a Big Five conference on sweeping global issues.

Soviet Influence Sought

But the West admittedly sought to get Russian influence to bear on Peiping to speed up the Korean peace conference and to stop supplying Communist-led guerrilla armies in Indochina as a prelude to peace negotiations there.

One big stumbling block to the Korean peace conference was Russia's continued refusal to set alongside Red China and North Korea on the "aggressor" side of the table as proposed by the United Nations.

A Western source refused to give details about today's "shade of progress." It may have been simply that all the answers were not finally in to each side's propositions and, in lieu of that, hope has not been completely extinguished.

Talks Seen Ending Next Week

The source forecast the Berlin conference would run to the end of next week. Previously, some Western diplomats expected a breakup by next Wednesday or Thursday.

Bidault is under great pressure at home to start talks on settlement of the Indochina War. He went into today's meeting determined to pin Molotov down to a clear position on this.

With Dulles and Eden, Bidault held the view Red China must first demonstrate good faith in helping end Asia's "little war" before claiming equality as a great power.

From another informed Western quarter came an admonition tonight not to be "prematurely optimistic" because the Big Four's Asian debate would continue at least another day.

Conferees Agree On Pension Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Senate-House conferees today reached agreement on a bill liberalizing pensions for the 96 senators and 435 House members.

The measure also carries increased pensions for the 4,300 congressional employes.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me), head of the Senate conferees, said there was unanimous agreement.

As originally passed by the Senate last year, the bill only raised the legislative employes' pensions.

The House changed it last week by adding several provisions which would boost pension benefits for senators and representatives.

Under present law, members of Congress can get a pension at age 62 after six years of service. It is figured on the basis of two and one-half per cent of an average salary over the entire period of service, multiplied by years of service. To be eligible, they contribute six per cent of their salaries to the retirement fund.

$100,500 In Bonds Strayed Or Stolen

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP) — A messenger for a Wall Street brokerage firm told police today $100,500 worth of negotiable U. S. Treasury bonds had disappeared from his briefcase.

Arthur Leonard, 65, a retired city fireman now employed by Childs & Co., said he started out this morning with a large number of securities for delivery to seven places in the financial area.

At his fifth stop, he said, he discovered that a $100,000 bond and five others for $100 each were missing.

State Property Tax Repeal Move Loses

Senate Sends Measure Back To Committee

Motion To Recommit Bill Approved 17-12 As Democrats Split

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 11 (AP)—A bold move to repeal the state property tax hit a stone wall today in the Maryland Senate.

By a curious 17-12 vote it was bounced back to the Finance Committee with a suggestion that it be given more thought.

Committee Chairman Goldstein (D-Calvert), one of the sponsors of the bill, had argued the property levy should not be used as the only method of financing construction bonds. Each bond bill should carry its own financing method, he said.

In 1950, Gov. McKeldin made a campaign promise that the State would withdraw from the property tax field and leave it clear for the counties, Goldstein said. He asked that the Finance Committee's favorable report be adopted, setting up the measure for final passage.

Kimble Opposes Move

Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), opposing the move, reminded the senators that Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles disapproved of the plan. They made this clear in testifying before the Legislative Council on the question before this session of the General Assembly, he said.

"Well, Mr. Miles is connected with all those big banks up in Baltimore," replied Goldstein, "and he's got a personal interest at stake."

The Calvert County senator was referring to often-expressed arguments that lending institutions regard the property tax as a stable source of revenue and therefore make a low interest rate available on bonds financed by that levy.

Demos Split 8-10

The motion to recommit the bill to the Finance Committee came from Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington), who noted that the committee had given it a favorable report by a 6-2 vote with five members abstaining. He also urged the committee to give state fiscal officers an opportunity to express their views on the bill before reporting it out again.

The Democrats split 8-10 on the vote and the Republicans went 9-2 in favor of recommitting.

The case of medical care for the poor was pleaded by health officials before the Finance Committee earlier. The state isn't providing enough money to treat all of them, the senators were told.

A reduction recommended by Gov. McKeldin is going to mean 400 more of the poor sick people in the counties are going to be denied treatment, Dr. Mark V. Ziegler, chief of the Bureau of Medical Services, testified.

Home Rule Fight Renewed

The delegates were ready to renew their fight for more home rule. Reintroduced was a bill of last session which the House passed and the Senate killed.

The bill, subject to a referendum, would divide cities into four classes according to population after they incorporated and adopted charters. The Legislature then could pass laws applying only to all cities in a class, instead of individually as now.

Three bills affecting the state income tax also were among the new arrivals in the House.

Del. Reed (R-Allegany) renewed the effort to permit Marylanders to deduct federal income taxes from their state returns.

Del. Luber (D-Balto 5th) proposed that people over 65 also will be limited like everyone else to a maximum deduction of $2,500 for husband and wife and $1,250 for others for medical expenses on their income tax.

Dels. Wallace and King (R-Montgomery) will try to make dividends of cooperatives subject to the tax.

Automobile Helps Keep Legislature Busy

FATAL WRAP-AROUND—A speeding automobile left a curve in Forest Park, Fort Wayne, Ind., and wrapped around a tree, killing its sole occupant, Richard E. Mahan, Decatur, Ind. The car welded itself about the tree after skidding more than 100 feet.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 11 (AP) — The automobile is driving the Legislature.

The tremendous role of the motor vehicle in life today makes more and more laws necessary.

In the first seven days of this year's session of the Maryland General Assembly, 24 bills and resolutions relating to motor vehicles have been introduced.

One of the main concerns is insurance in case of accident. There is a widespread feeling that every driver should be required to have insurance at all times. But there's also hesitancy to adopt such a drastic measure.

The House Judiciary Committee launched a series of moves today designed to bring the present financial responsibility laws as close as possible to compulsory insurance without calling it such.

Motor vehicle owners in Maryland don't have to have damage insurance now until after they have an accident in order to hold a driver's license.

After three years, the owner doesn't have to prove any longer he has insurance unless he has another accident. The House of delegates adopted its committee's favorable report on a bill to make a person involved in an accident continue insurance forever thereafter.

It also advanced a bill to make all persons under 21 years old have liability insurance in order to get a driver's license.

The delegates passed on to the Senate a bill in which Maryland would respect suspension or revocation of driver licenses in other states because of failure to meet their financial responsibility laws.

Judge Dismisses Contempt Charge Against Erickson

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The government said today it had no hope of convicting gambler Frank Erickson for his refusal to answer Senate Crime Committee questions in 1951.

As a result, Federal Judge John F. X. McGohey threw out of court a contempt of Congress charge against the pudgy, one-time kingpin of a 20 million dollars a year gambling ring.

U. S. Attorney J. Edward Lumbard said his case against Erickson was wrecked by recent court decisions involving the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution. Congressional witnesses have invoked the amendment when they refused to answer questions for fear of incriminating themselves.

The law as it now operates is under attack by the Eisenhower administration, as a shelter for suspected Communists as well as gangsters.

Erickson currently is serving six months in prison as an income tax evader at Milan, Mich. Dismissal of the contempt charge freed him from a further possible sentence on conviction of up to 10 years.

Cole Says Time Near For All-Atom Defense

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Feb. 11 (AP)—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) said tonight "the time is now measurably closer" when the United States can depend primarily upon nuclear weapons "for defense and retaliatory striking power."

But the chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee warned this would not "permit miraculous overnight slashes in defense spending."

"Atomic energy is now at the very heart of all our plans for military preparedness," Cole said in a speech prepared for a Lincoln Day banquet given by the Broome County Young Men's Republican League.

Slayers Of Grocer Given Life Terms

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP) — Life prison terms were handed two young Negroes today for the robbery-slaying of Harry Ezersky, East Baltimore grocer.

The defendants, John E. Mitchell, 24, and James Edward Robinson, 22, were convicted by separate juries before separate judges.

Mitchell, a former employe of Ezersky's was accused of planning the holdup that resulted in the killing. The jury that convicted him returned a qualified verdict preventing capital punishment and making life imprisonment mandatory.

Refugee Relief Program Hurt By Conditions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The refugee relief program enacted by Congress last year has all but bogged down under the refusal of foreign governments to accept certain of its conditions, Congress was informed today.

The status of the Special Refugee Relief Act passed last August, providing for special quota admission of 209,000 refugees and displaced persons, was reported by R. W. Scott McLeod, State Department administrator of the act.

McLeod informed Congress that only Italy and Greece up to this time have agreed to issue the refugees the required certificates guaranteeing their acceptance back into the country of their origin if the United State discovers a visa was obtained by fraud.

"Some governments have balked at the issuance of such a certificate on the ground that it must be valid for an unlimited period, preferring to limit the validity of such a certificate," McLeod reported.

While negotiations are continuing through diplomatic channels to overcome the roadblock to refugee admissions, McLeod stated, it is now not possible for the program to operate except in Greece and Italy.

Under the act's quota provisions, the admissions from Greece and Italy constitute only a small fraction of the total permissible admissions.

The guarantee-of-return certificate is not the only "imponderable position" confronting administrators of the act, McLeod said.

He reported that others are uncertainty over the extent to which American sponsors will guarantee jobs, housing and support for refugees, and the limit to the number of jobs which would be available in case of an economic recession.

McLeod said the extent to which American sponsors will guarantee the support of refugees once they reach the United States may have to be decided by the courts in the last analysis.

To slim down successfully, be sure that your diet measures up to all six of these rules!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"I'd love to lose weight but I love to eat even more," wisecracked the jovial matron as she reached for another chocolate to stoke her body that already was a good thirty pounds too heavy.

She got a chuckle out of the friends who were present — and the attention for which she yearned. But how much truth was there in her facetious statement?

Increased Popularity

The chances are that she was "eating herself out of shape" for solace, as a substitute for some unsatisfied emotional craving. If she were to slim down, her pride in her new attractiveness and the admiration it would bring might eliminate her compulsive eating. With the proper diet, the more weight lost, the lighter an overweight person feels in spirit is a sure social asset!

But what is the proper reducing diet? Here is the yardstick by which it should be judged:

1. It must keep your energy at par with plenty of meat, fish, poultry, shellfish, eggs, fat-free milk and cottage cheese. If it is deficient in such high-value protein foods, vital body tissues will be depleted.

2. It must include a sufficient variety of vitamins and minerals found in such foods as leafy green and yellow vegetables, fruits, whole-grain bread and cereals as well as the foods mentioned just above.

3. It should be based on three meals a day with a wise distribution of the calories. "Meal skipping" will not aid the dieter who wishes to have a trim-figured future.

Easy To Sustain

4. It must be practical, economical, and must deviate as little as possible from sound eating habits, and fit easily into the regular family meals.

5. It must be satisfying enough to aid the dieter in acquiring a taste preference for the nutritious but non-fattening foods.

6. It should result in a loss of 1½ to 2 pounds a week.

Those who have tried to diet but given it up before achieving success will usually discover that they have violated one of these rules for safe, sane and satisfying slimming!

Helicopter Baffles Ancient Greek Town

SALONIKA, Greece, Feb. 11 (AP)—U.S. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, American representative on the NATO Council, baffled the inhabitants of the small village of Pella today.

The former U.S. Army chief of staff flew into the little town north of here in a helicopter—the first Pella had ever seen—carrying a note written in Greek requesting the people to show him where Alexander the Great was born.

Pella is traditionally the site of the home of the great Greek conqueror and his father, Philip of Macedon, who lived about 2,400 years ago.

Substance From Soft Coal Checks Fungi

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—A substance extracted from soft coal has proved capable—in laboratory experiments—of checking a number of fungi that are damaging to trees, shrubs and herbs, two Illinois scientists reported today.

Researchers N. C. Schenck and J. C. Carter of the Illinois State Natural History Survey at Urbana said the substance was extracted from "vitrain," the material which constitute the bright bands in banded coal.

Describing their research in the technical journal "Science," they said the substance had proved bad news to certain of the fungi that are harmful to apples, oak and elm trees, or to various other plants.

They said that several years ago, an English researcher, Dr. W. D. Evans, extracted from vitrain a substance capable of inhibiting the development of "bacillus subtilis," a harmless form of bacteria.

The Englishman theorized that this substance might account for differences which have been noted in the occurrence of certain forms of lung ailments which miners sometimes get from inhaling coal dust. He figured that the higher the percentage of vitrain coal in a mine, the lower the incidence of these lung ailments among the miners.

Food For The Hungry

Though there are food surpluses in the United States and Canada, more than half the people in the world are chronically underfed. The world's population is estimated at 2,500,000,000 and rising. The Population Reference Bureau predicts that a century hence the figure may be 7,000,000,000.

Scientists insist that the world can easily produce enough food to give its entire population an adequate diet, this goal has never been approached. In particular, what food is produced is not getting to the people that need it most. U. S. agricultural surpluses are an example.

And many people who could be engaged in food production are partly or wholly unemployed. Others are in the world's armed forces, estimated at 20,000,000, or engaged in military production. There would be more food if conflict were replaced by cooperation.

Meanwhile, the statement continues to be repeated periodically that there is more food in the sea than can be grown on the land. The land is losing irreplaceable topsoil—to the sea. The sea grows fish, mountains of which are consumed by human beings. It produces seaweed and other highly nutritious algae, and nourishes whales, whose meat is said to be good eating.

The sea also contains a vast unharvested amount of plankton—minute animal and vegetable organisms floating in the ocean, which derive their sustenance largely from topsoil minerals the land is losing.

Plankton is potentially good food. Whales love it. Scientists who crossed the Pacific on the raft Kontiki ate it and enjoyed it. There are many technical problems to be solved in sieving it up, processing and distributing and preparing its many forms. Some of the bays of the U. S. are reported to be particularly rich in plankton.

Treaty With Austria?

The Russians are great ones for pulling rabbits out of hats. So it is not improbable, according to some "observers" in Berlin, that at the current trading of insults there by the Big Four foreign ministers, Comrade Molotov may suddenly open up the road again for a peace treaty with Austria.

Under the peace treaties in effect with Hungary and Romania, Russia is allowed to keep troops in those countries to maintain contact with the Russian occupation forces in Austria. This is one reason frequently cited for Russia's refusal so far to be reasonable on a peace treaty with Austria that would mean the withdrawal of all the Big Four occupation forces in that country.

However, Russia could undoubtedly find other legal pretexts for keeping her troops in Hungary and Romania. And Austria has recently shown itself willing—if necessary to get a peace treaty—to accept the Russian expropriation of her oil resources, maybe to make some war indemnity payments to Moscow in cash, and to restrict the degree of Austrian cooperation with the Western democracies.

After several hundred fruitless meetings on an Austrian peace treaty, the Allies and the Russians tried again in February 1953, abandoned this effort after four days as fruitless also. In 1952 the Allies, despairing of an agreement on all points, had drawn up an abbreviated draft treaty, only to have the Russians demand that this be abandoned in favor of the former comprehensive draft treaty. After the 1953 talks came to naught, the Russians softened their occupation policies in Austria in many respects.

The Rastovorov Case

There is a good market in the entertainment world for cloak and dagger plots, and perhaps someone will snap up the thread of what may one day be known as The Rastovorov Case. Actually, there is very little plot to it.

A Russian second secretary of the Soviet mission, which is still hanging on in Japan under questionable circumstances, quit the Russian side and sought asylum with an American intelligence unit. He is described in some dispatches as having been one of Beria's men.

Although the U. S. State Department hasn't said anything about the case officially, the Russians have supplied some interesting details. He's been kidnapped, the Russians are shouting, and they want the Japanese government to do something about it.

Meanwhile Rastovorov, the Russian official, is presumably singing to U. S. intelligence like a bird. One news service reports that he has given U. S. authorities details of a series of Russian spy rings operating in Japan and the Far East. There are dark hints that Americans are involved in them.

The Russians, meanwhile, are sticking to their wrathful claims that Rastovorov was spirited away—in fact, they have reacted exactly as they did when a Polish member of the Korean truce team jumped sides.

Flight of this spy should serve to undermine whatever work the Soviet mission has been doing in Japan, which should be helpful in clearing that crop of Russians out of the country. That the Russians are worried by the defection of this spy is apparent when in one breath they claim that Rastovorov was taken by force, and in another that he was crazy anyhow.

Modern St. Valentine

There is no proof that people in Loveland, Colo., are more lovey-dovey or affectionate than folks elsewhere in the United States. But there is a man in Loveland who offers an assist to lovers and sweethearts throughout the nation at this time of year.

Loveland, which bills itself as "Sweetheart Town, U. S. A.," remails valentines free of charge, complete with the Loveland postmark and a special crimson cachet stamped on the envelope. This remailing service is a project of Loveland's postmaster, Elmer M. Ivars. It was started when sweethearts began sending valentines to Mr. Ivars with requests that he remail them just before Valentine Day from the Loveland post office.

The special cachet was added in 1947. Last year Mr. Ivars remailed more than 60,000 valentines to the 48 states and several foreign countries. This year's cachet, incidentally, shows a western branding iron in the shape of an "L" in a heart and includes the following verse:

"The sweetheart brand is meant to be a special wish to you from me."

If this sounds somewhat pallid and platonic, it is merely something thrown in as a sort of afterthought, and not meant to take the place of personal messages inscribed on the missives themselves.

How To Keep Well

Peptic Ulcer Complications

A few days ago I overheard two men discussing peptic ulcer. "There is nothing to the condition," said one. "Don't let the doctors scare you. Watch what you eat and take a little milk or baking soda whenever your stomach hurts."

I wish the ulcer problem were this simple and that we could get by on a milk diet and baking soda. The physician is interested in closing these lesions because he realizes that after healing, they will not bleed or perforate. In other words, he has learned to respect stomach and duodenal ulcer because of its potential complications. While the majority get well, he has no way of determining beforehand whether Mr. Smith's ulcer will behave or go on a rampage. The man who said "there is nothing to the condition" would change his tune if he witnessed the agony that follows rupture of an ulcer or the anxiety of a man who is hemorrhaging internally and is certain he will bleed to death.

Perforation is the most dangerous and dramatic of all ulcer complications. It is a simple process in that the ulcer grows larger and deeper and finally raises through the wall of the stomach or intestine. When this occurs, acid and other digestive juices—along with anything else that happens to be present in the stomach—will spill into the abdominal cavity, leading to peritonitis. It is an agonizing experience and the victim drops in his tracks and refuses to move. This is understandable as the slightest movement shifts the caustic juices into new areas. Pain is written in every line of the face, which is ashen and drenched with perspiration. Even breathing hurts and it is a struggle to talk. Meanwhile, the abdominal muscles become taut and hard as a board. When a physician attempts to examine the affected area, the sufferer pushes the hands away because he does not want to be touched.

When this complication develops, operation is imperative and the sooner it is done, the better the outlook. In one group of patients, the death rate was 6.2 per cent when the operation was done within 12 hours, and 64.5 per cent among those who waited longer. The usual operation is not difficult as most surgeons do no more than close the perforated hole. This is followed by the liberal use of antibiotics and by blood transfusions.

Hemorrhage is another complication that adds to the seriousness of ulcer. In this condition, the lesion erodes a blood vessel and the blood loss depends upon the size of the vein or artery, and how soon a clot forms. Most hemorrhages cease spontaneously but should bleeding continue, emergency surgery may be needed to save life.

Internal bleeding manifests itself in several ways. Vomiting black blood and passing tarry stools may be the first clues. When the hemorrhage is more extensive, the victim feels faint, weak, dizzy, and breathless and unless something is done, he collapses. Bed rest is essential and an icebag placed over the abdomen helps to shrink the bleeding blood vessel. Morphine is used to allay apprehension and quiet the individual. Small but frequent feedings also are of value because food in the stomach encourages the cessation of bleeding.

TOMORROW: Recurring bouts of multiple sclerosis.

Baering Down ON THE NEWS

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Track Odds

Close to 50 years ago Arthur Brisbane stopped hoss-guessing in New York with a terrific cartoon. That didn't stop the wagering. The boys bet an iron deer would beat a stone dog off the front lawn.

If Governor Dewey has his way we will have to paint stripes on the race hosses and claim Belmont Park is a merry-go-round.

The neighbors' children are trying to legalize off-the-track betting in New York. We already have off-the-cuff paying.

The cartoon Mr. Brisbane ran in the Evening Journal was by Bob Carter. It showed a raggedy mother pushing her baby through the two-dollar window at Sheepshead Bay.

It knocked racing off like an icicle in a thaw. The impact on public spirit was that of a stone fight inside a florist's greenhouse.

Bob Carter got a raise and went uptown to celebrate. He met Tom Powers, Winsor McCay and George Jiggs McManus. Along about dawn the quartette drew an even greater cartoon.

It showed the man in the two-dollar alcove shoving the raggedy mother's baby back through the window to mama. Along with 11 other infants.

The raggedy mother had scored on a long shot. Noodleless to state, Mr. Brisbane did not print the even greater cartoon in the Evening Journal.

Gouzenko Predicts War With Russia In 10 Years; We Should Encourage High-Placed Russians To Desert Kremlin; U. S. Must Penetrate Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON—Igor Gouzenko, the Soviet code clerk who exposed the spy ring in Canada, had some potent advice to offer during my second interview with him. The advice should be particularly appropriate now that the U. S. Army in Japan has wooed and won another high-up member of the Soviet espionage apparatus, and now that purges are taking place in two important parts of the Soviet Union.

What Gouzenko told me boiled down briefly to the following:

1. There will be war between the United States and Russia in 10 years if it's left to the Soviet military and unless the United States does something to penetrate the iron curtain.

2. Scores of highly placed Russians would be glad to desert communism and join the West if they were given proper security.

3. The way to convert American Communists away from communism is by persuasion rather than terrorism before the spotlight of congressional committees.

4. The free world hasn't begun to scratch the surface in wooing the peoples behind the iron curtain. This is the real Achilles' heel of communism and the way to prevent war.

Gouzenko also said that he had never heard the name of Harry D. White mentioned while he was coding and decoding cables for the Soviet spy ring in Canada. This is probably one reason why the Senate Internal Security Committee has said so little since coming back from interviewing Gouzenko in Canada. The senators went up to Canada after various public statements about rooting out American spies, but have been strangely silent since their return.

Gouzenko did tell me, however, that he had heard from one of his colleagues returning from Moscow that the Kremlin was cooperating with an assistant to Secretary of State Stettinius during the San Francisco Conference. Alger Hiss was chief assistant to Stettinius at that time.

Supports Voice Of America

Gouzenko is a sincere, volatile, somewhat nervous gentleman who talks with his hands to supplement his sometimes inperfect English. Incidentally, he objected strenuously at first to wearing a mask during the television interview even though failure to wear a disguise would have increased the hazard of Soviet recognition and revenge, under which he lives constantly.

"The best way to reach the people behind the iron curtain is by radio," Gouzenko insisted, despite Senator McCarthy's constant belittling of the Voice of America. "Of course only a few people hear American radio broadcasts, but they tell other people. The news gets around. All people behind the iron curtain," he said, "are hungry for news. You must not neglect this."

When I told Gouzenko that the State Department was working on a plan of perfecting a small radio set about the size of a cigaret pack which could be dropped behind the iron curtain, he remarked:

"That is admirable. The Russian people will keep that and use it. They would never give it up. They like tangible gadgets from the West."

Wooing High Reds

When I asked him what he would suggest to encourage more Russians, Poles, Czechs and others with important military or diplomatic information to come over to the free world, he talked at some length.

This, incidentally, was the chief point he emphasized to Senators Jenner and McCarran when they went to Canada to interview him for a Senate Internal Security Committee. So far, their report has not been made public.

"In front of every potential escapee there is a problem," Gouzenko told me. "He has to think, 'Will he be accepted as a member of society in the free world?' So you must give him assurances in advance. He must be sure of a job, of police protection, and of material help.

"There is also a matter of human dignity involved," he continued. "Sometimes a high Russian military attache or general would like to come over to the West, but he continued on with the Soviet simply because he is afraid he will be humiliated here, and perhaps be put to work as a janitor or a doorman in front of a New York night club."

I told Gouzenko of my experience in Germany where I found various high Russian escapees had been shunted back and forth between Frankfort and Washington by the U. S. military, milked dry of their information, then allowed to sit and rot in concentration camps outside Frankfort.

Lost In Shuffle

Two years ago I persuaded 14 senators to introduce a bill to study this whole problem of Russian escapees but, like most legislation of this kind, it got lost in the shuffle.

Gouzenko emphasized that this was one thing the United States would have to pay much more attention to if we wanted important military men to desert the iron curtain. He didn't say so in direct language, but I gathered that Canada was doing a much more efficient job on this than the United States.

Regarding American or Canadian Communists, Gouzenko said: "They do not work for money, but because of a mistaken ideology. The best way to convert them is by persuasion, not terrorism. They have been misled and we should all work at correcting their wrong ideas."

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — In jousting with Russia for the affection of the German people we are handicapped by our "Trading With the Enemy Act," reportedly the work of the late Harry Dexter White.

Twice in a generation this country seized considerable German holdings in this country. Within ten years of World War I we had returned to Germany all properties seized during that conflict. Our philosophy was that we served simply as custodians until such time as hostilities had ceased, reparations had been attended to, and rightful owners properly identified.

One of White's responsibilities as assistant secretary of treasury under Henry Morgenthau was jurisdiction over alien property matters. According to Sen. Dirksen's Senate judiciary subcommittee, White was the subject of alarming (but ignored) F.B.I. reports at the time he introduced the wholly new U. S. attitude toward seized enemy properties which prevails to this day. His rewritten "Trading With the Enemy Act" called for confiscation and liquidation, rather than custodianship. It was in keeping with his plan to turn defeated Germany into a pasture.

The subcommittee, which has urged drastic changes in White's law as a means of making friends in Germany (and Japan) and encouraging trade between those countries and this, uncovered a host of injustices.

One was that of a German named Heinrich George Lutz whose $30,000 bank account in this country was seized during the war and eventually confiscated. Lutz was arrested by the Nazis in 1943 for bravely expressing anti-Nazi view, and was held there and in an insane asylum until the end of the war.

But his money, badly needed for heavy medical expenses, will not be returned by the U. S. because under the present act he is, inferentially, a Nazi! He was not imprisoned for the entire period of the war. The year and a half he spent in jail, and his proven anti-Nazism, amount to nothing under the White-conceived act.

Henry Gerken was born in Germany, became a U. S. citizen, joined the U. S. Army, won a Purple Heart in Italy, and was killed in 1944 while storming a German stronghold there. A grateful nation awarded him the Bronze Star posthumously.

Gerken willed his estate to his parents. They live in Germany, are old farmers and in great need. But the Office of Alien Property cannot fulfill the GI's last wish, because of the phrasing of "White's "Trading With the Enemy Act."

The act was condemned in advance by the American Bar Association and the American Chamber of Commerce. The State Department spoke against it. But White, who must have packed tremendous power, prevailed.

The Russians have been able to make propaganda use of many of the pathetic cases before the Office of Alien Property. They have pictured us as a greedy and heartless nation posing as world benefactors but in truth grasping and mean. Edward A. Hayes, chief counsel of the sub-committee, has recommended liquidation of the OAP. Just claims then would be paid through a reallotment of Mutual Security Administration funds.

Hayes and members of the committee feel that the only course consistent wtih American honor, tradition, and the present open-handed American foreign policy, is the return of assets to rightful owners. Hayes has said:

"This never-before-adopted policy of the United States has succeeded in alienating more sound German citizens, and American citizens of German descent, than any other act performed by our government."

Dirksen says that the way White wrote the act could mean some of the claims in the OAP might remain there 50 years before being dealt with. Britain is well along with its job of returning German properties, trademarks and patents. Colombia is clearing its books of seized German property. So is Chile. When that country announced its intentions this winter the German Federal Republic's press and information office commented: "This shows a regard for international law and sets an example which, we hope, will have worldwide effects." Meaning us.

The subcommittee investigation indicated also that Lauchlin Currie, former White House aide accused by Elizabeth Bentley and others of being a Soviet sympathizer, took a leading role in high-pressuring Switzerland to adopt a position similar to the U. S. stand on seizure and confiscation. Instead, Switzerland paid us a lump sum as a substitute for the money we would have received through Swiss confiscation of deviously held German assets.

Too bad the act can't be wiped out or softened in time for John Foster Dulles to announce the change during the Berlin meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers. It would be a propaganda tenstrike.

These Days

Lincoln And Nationalism

It has taken many generations for North and South to forget the War between the States, and even in this struggle over the fundamental principle of the rights of sovereign states to secede from the Union, it is realized more and more that had Abraham Lincoln lived, the atrocities of Reconstruction would not have taken place. The ideal upon which Lincoln risked a nation was that Americans remained Americans whatever their differences; he could not and would not have treated the South as a conquered people.

Lincoln recognized nationalism as a righteous ideal. He lived in an era when nationalism was moving men to noble sacrifice. Lincoln was born in 1809, five years before the Congress of Vienna, which altered the political face of Europe and let loose nationalistic forces which are still in ferment on all continents except the North American.

Events such as the Belgian Revolution in 1830, which separated that country from the Netherlands, are forgotten today but they must have made a great impression on the young Lincoln, backwoodsman though he was. We know that he was a reader and although in his day there was no radio and no quick telegraphic reports, the news did get through. And Lincoln must have known of the great reform bills in England between 1830 and 1846 which saved that country from revolution. And he must have known of the abolition of slavery in the British Colonies, and of the Chartist Movement, and of such personalities as Richard Cobden and John Bright.

All of the world of Lincoln's boyhood and youth was excited over Greece's war for independence, which was a dramatic outburst of a Christian nation in the Ottoman Empire. It will be recalled that the poet, Byron, threw himself into the fray, which really started in Romania, in the provinces of Wallachia and Moldavia and was strongly supported by the Russian czars.

I refer to these incidents only because in the United States during this period sympathy was nationwide for all nationalistic movements. It is therefore not surprising that in the great Lincoln-Douglas debates, which made Lincoln a national figure, he should have declared the strongly nationalistic statement: "A house divided against itself cannot stand." Further he said:

". . . I do not expect the Union to be dissolved; I do not expect the house to fall; but I do expect it will cease to be divided. It will become all one thing, or all the other."

This statement inevitably produced the War Between the States because when Lincoln was elected to the presidency by the newly founded Republican party, the issue was drawn as between nationalism and localism, just as it is drawn in our times between nationalism and internationalism by the Bricker Amendment, which has brought to a head a division that has been in the making since 1937 when Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered his Quarantine speech, which gave to our foreign policy a decisive internationalist twist.

It is too often assumed that Lincoln based his program on the immorality of Negro slavery. Actually in his first Inaugural Address he said:

"I have no purpose directly or indirectly to interfere with the institution of slavery in the states where it exists."

But on the subject of secession, in the same address, he reiterated his nationalistic doctrine:

". . . No state, upon its own mere action, can lawfully get out of the Union."

It is impossible to guess what might have happened in history had events taken a different turn or had the wrong personality led the nation at a given moment. What would have happened to Christianity in Europe had there been no Charles Martel, no Charlemagne, no John Sobieski, no Napoleon, no Lenin? We might guess but we shall never know.

But we do know, because the figures are so close to us and the events are still part of our lives, that had Abraham Lincoln, the gangling, homely backwoodsman who lifted himself from a dreamy rail-splitter in New Salem, Ill., to become a fine lawyer, a profound intellect and a moral force—had such a man not appeared in the 1860s, this nation might have been divided like the Balkans into many conflicting states.

Lincoln recognized that nationalism means strength, but that it must be supported by traditional morality. Thus, he grows in stature as the nation he saved grows in stature.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Dwight Eisenhower as a military man knows that a good offense is as necessary in war as a good defense, but he doesn't seem to have grasped the importance of the same rule as applied to political warfare. Unfortunately, the President again allowed himself at his press conference to be entrapped by Trumanite reporters into pulling the rug from beneath his own party's spokesmen. He did it once before on Attorney General Brownell when the Harry Dexter White case was first publicized, and he now deals a body blow to his own national chairman, Leonard Hall.

For several days the Democratic strategists have been trying to undercut or nullify the effect of the forthcoming Lincoln Day speeches by the Republicans. Entirely oblivious to the bitter and irresponsible attacks made by high officials of the Roosevelt-Truman administrations against the Republican Party as a whole for many years, the cry now has gone up that the Eisenhower Administration is countenancing some sort of violation of the rules of political etiquette. Mr. Eisenhower, whose knowledge of the insidious tactics of politics is limited but who certainly might have been briefed on the subject in advance of his press conference, left the impression with many reporters that he disavows what Chairman Hall of the Republican National Committee, his own chief of staff Sherman Adams, and Governor Dewey have been saying in their political speeches.

When news of what the President had said at his press conference reached Capitol Hill, there was rejoicing among the various Democrats at the way a wedge had been driven between Mr. Eisenhower and the Republicans now out on speaking tours.

The rules of political combat are to hit hard at the opposition's past errors. If Mr. Eisenhower is naive enough to believe that he can conduct the Presidency on a kid-glove basis of aloofness toward the preceding Administration, he will be weakening the morale of his own party in the Congressional elections this autumn.

There are, of course, extremes in political campaigning. But basically the American people believe in holding a political party responsible for what its officials did when they were in office, and they are always glad to get the facts about the mistakes that have been made. The late FDR from 1932 to 1944 never let an opportunity go by to take a crack at the Republican Party as a party of "depression." He assailed all businessmen as "economic royalists." On nation-wide trips paid for by the American people—which he facetiously called "non-political" journeys—he denounced the entire Republican Party as a faithless institution.

In every campaign, and between campaigns, the country was reminded by the Democrats of the acts of the Herbert Hoover Administration with a scathing line of attack. No Republican members of Congress did the "cry baby" act then. It would have done them no good, anyway, for Harry Truman "poured it on" when he delivered his "give-'em-hell" speeches, which were so often acclaimed by the very Democrats who are now shouting "unfair."

In the election of November 1952, the people "liked Ike," but primarily they voted against the party of Harry Truman. They voted against corruption and Communism in government as well as bungling in military preparedness before Korea and bad judgement after the Korean War began.

Naturally, there are Democrats who want the Republicans to keep silent and say no more about the Harry Dexter Whites and the Alger Hisses and the Klaus Fuchses and forget all those "red herring" statements by which Mr. Truman sought to minimize the cost to the American people of treason. Mr. Eisenhower now orders the Republican Party to be gagged on such issues, he will be flying in the face of a fundamental principle that parties at all times should be held accountable for their mistakes until and unless they show they have repented.

The "mess" in Washington was one of the things the people heard a great deal about in the last campaign. Now that the Republicans are able to see what's in the files and what's missing and have discovered how records were destroyed and personnel files were tampered with, certainly there are Democrats who want to see these things supressed and covered up. But will Mr. Eisenhower agree to such a cover-up? It would be a big victory for the Democratic strategists if he did.

The argument is made that the votes of the Democrats are needed in Congress to support the President's program. If Mr. Eisenhower, however, has to buy their support by suppressing the facts about the corruption and malfeasance of the Roosevelt-Truman administrations and the laxity about Communists in government, the country will lose respect for him as a political leader and his opponents in Congress will be found exacting every day a higher and higher price for their cooperation.

Mr. Eisenhower's legislative proposals will stand or fall on their merits. If they are in the public interest, the Democrats will have to vote for them anyway or be defeated at the polls. They cannot seem to be vindictive or perhaps in some cases more concerned about keeping the Harry Dexter Whites and the Alger Hisses out of campaign attacks than about the important legislation wanted by Americans, irrespective of party.

Food For The Hungry

Though there are food surpluses in the United States and Canada, more than half the people in the world are chronically underfed. The world's population is estimated at 2,500,000,000 and rising. The Population Reference Bureau predicts that a century hence the figure may be 7,000,000,000.

Scientists insist that the world can easily produce enough food to give its entire population an adequate diet, this goal has never been approached. In particular, what food is produced is not getting to the people that need it most. U. S. agricultural surpluses are an example.

And many people who could be engaged in food production are partly or wholly unemployed. Others are in the world's armed forces, estimated at 20,000,000, or engaged in military production. There would be more food if conflict were replaced by cooperation.

Meanwhile, the statement continues to be repeated periodically that there is more food in the sea than can be grown on the land. The land is losing irreplaceable topsoil—to the sea. The sea grows fish, mountains of which are consumed by human beings. It produces seaweed and other highly nutritious algae, and nourishes whales, whose meat is said to be good eating.

The sea also contains a vast unharvested amount of plankton—minute animal and vegetable organisms floating in the ocean, which derive their sustenance largely from topsoil minerals the land is losing.

Plankton is potentially good food. Whales love it. Scientists who crossed the Pacific on the raft Kontiki ate it and enjoyed it. There are many technical problems to be solved in sieving it up, processing and distributing and preparing its many forms. Some of the bays of the U. S. are reported to be particularly rich in plankton.

Treaty With Austria?

The Russians are great ones for pulling rabbits out of hats. So it is not improbable, according to some "observers" in Berlin, that at the current trading of insults there by the Big Four foreign ministers, Comrade Molotov may suddenly open up the road again for a peace treaty with Austria.

Under the peace treaties in effect with Hungary and Romania, Russia is allowed to keep troops in those countries to maintain contact with the Russian occupation forces in Austria. This is one reason frequently cited for Russia's refusal so far to be reasonable on a peace treaty with Austria that would mean the withdrawal of all the Big Four occupation forces in that country.

However, Russia could undoubtedly find other legal pretexts for keeping her troops in Hungary and Romania. And Austria has recently shown itself willing—if necessary to get a peace treaty—to accept the Russian expropriation of her oil resources, maybe to make some war indemnity payments to Moscow in cash, and to restrict the degree of Austrian cooperation with the Western democracies.

After several hundred fruitless meetings on an Austrian peace treaty, the Allies and the Russians tried again in February 1953, abandoned this effort after four days as fruitless also. In 1952 the Allies, despairing of an agreement on all points, had drawn up an abbreviated draft treaty, only to have the Russians demand that this be abandoned in favor of the former comprehensive draft treaty. After the 1953 talks came to naught, the Russians softened their occupation policies in Austria in many respects.

The Rastovorov Case

There is a good market in the entertainment world for cloak and dagger plots, and perhaps someone will snap up the thread of what may one day be known as The Rastovorov Case. Actually, there is very little plot to it.

A Russian second secretary of the Soviet mission, which is still hanging on in Japan under questionable circumstances, quit the Russian side and sought asylum with an American intelligence unit. He is described in some dispatches as having been one of Beria's men.

Although the U. S. State Department hasn't said anything about the case officially, the Russians have supplied some interesting details. He's been kidnapped, the Russians are shouting, and they want the Japanese government to do something about it.

Meanwhile Rastovorov, the Russian official, is presumably singing to U. S. intelligence like a bird. One news service reports that he has given U. S. authorities details of a series of Russian spy rings operating in Japan and the Far East. There are dark hints that Americans are involved in them.

The Russians, meanwhile, are sticking to their wrathful claims that Rastovorov was spirited away—in fact, they have reacted exactly as they did when a Polish member of the Korean truce team jumped sides.

Flight of this spy should serve to undermine whatever work the Soviet mission has been doing in Japan, which should be helpful in clearing that crop of Russians out of the country. That the Russians are worried by the defection of this spy is apparent when in one breath they claim that Rastovorov was taken by force, and in another that he was crazy anyhow.

Modern St. Valentine

There is no proof that people in Loveland, Colo., are more lovey-dovey or affectionate than folks elsewhere in the United States. But there is a man in Loveland who offers an assist to lovers and sweethearts throughout the nation at this time of year.

Loveland, which bills itself as "Sweetheart Town, U. S. A.," remails valentines free of charge, complete with the Loveland postmark and a special crimson cachet stamped on the envelope. This remailing service is a project of Loveland's postmaster, Elmer M. Ivars. It was started when sweethearts began sending valentines to Mr. Ivars with requests that he remail them just before Valentine Day from the Loveland post office.

The special cachet was added in 1947. Last year Mr. Ivars remailed more than 60,000 valentines to the 48 states and several foreign countries. This year's cachet, incidentally, shows a western branding iron in the shape of an "L" in a heart and includes the following verse:

"The sweetheart brand is meant to be a special wish to you from me."

If this sounds somewhat pallid and platonic, it is merely something thrown in as a sort of afterthought, and not meant to take the place of personal messages inscribed on the missives themselves.

Peptic Ulcer Complications

A few days ago I overheard two men discussing peptic ulcer. "There is nothing to the condition," said one. "Don't let the doctors scare you. Watch what you eat and take a little milk or baking soda whenever your stomach hurts."

I wish the ulcer problem were this simple and that we could get by on a milk diet and baking soda. The physician is interested in closing these lesions because he realizes that after healing, they will not bleed or perforate. In other words, he has learned to respect stomach and duodenal ulcer because of its potential complications. While the majority get well, he has no way of determining beforehand whether Mr. Smith's ulcer will behave or go on a rampage. The man who said "there is nothing to the condition" would change his tune if he witnessed the agony that follows rupture of an ulcer or the anxiety of a man who is hemorrhaging internally and is certain he will bleed to death.

Perforation is the most dangerous and dramatic of all ulcer complications. It is a simple process in that the ulcer grows larger and deeper and finally raises through the wall of the stomach or intestine. When this occurs, acid and other digestive juices—along with anything else that happens to be present in the stomach—will spill into the abdominal cavity, leading to peritonitis. It is an agonizing experience and the victim drops in his tracks and refuses to move. This is understandable as the slightest movement shifts the caustic juices into new areas. Pain is written in every line of the face, which is ashen and drenched with perspiration. Even breathing hurts and it is a struggle to talk. Meanwhile, the abdominal muscles become taut and hard as a board. When a physician attempts to examine the affected area, the sufferer pushes the hands away because he does not want to be touched.

When this complication develops, operation is imperative and the sooner it is done, the better the outlook. In one group of patients, the death rate was 6.2 per cent when the operation was done within 12 hours, and 64.5 per cent among those who waited longer. The usual operation is not difficult as most surgeons do no more than close the perforated hole. This is followed by the liberal use of antibiotics and by blood transfusions.

Hemorrhage is another complication that adds to the seriousness of ulcer. In this condition, the lesion erodes a blood vessel and the blood loss depends upon the size of the vein or artery, and how soon a clot forms. Most hemorrhages cease spontaneously but should bleeding continue, emergency surgery may be needed to save life.

Internal bleeding manifests itself in several ways. Vomiting black blood and passing tarry stools may be the first clues. When the hemorrhage is more extensive, the victim feels faint, weak, dizzy, and breathless and unless something is done, he collapses. Bed rest is essential and an icebag placed over the abdomen helps to shrink the bleeding blood vessel. Morphine is used to allay apprehension and quiet the individual. Small but frequent feedings also are of value because food in the stomach encourages the cessation of bleeding.

Baering Down ON THE NEWS

BY ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Track Odds

Close to 50 years ago Arthur Brisbane stopped hoss-guessing in New York with a terrific cartoon. That didn't stop the wagering. The boys bet an iron deer would beat a stone dog off the front lawn.

If Governor Dewey has his way we will have to paint stripes on the race hosses and claim Belmont Park is a merry-go-round.

The neighbors' children are trying to legalize off-the-track betting in New York. We already have off-the-cuff paying.

The cartoon Mr. Brisbane ran in the Evening Journal was by Bob Carter. It showed a raggedy mother pushing her baby through the two-dollar window at Sheepshead Bay.

It knocked racing off like an icicle in a thaw. The impact on public spirit was that of a stone fight inside a florist's greenhouse.

Bob Carter got a raise and went uptown to celebrate. He met Tom Powers, Winsor McCay and George Jiggs McManus. Along about dawn the quartette drew an even greater cartoon.

It showed the man in the two-dollar alcove shoving the raggedy mother's baby back through the window to mama. Along with 11 other infants.

The raggedy mother had scored on a long shot. Noodleless to state, Mr. Brisbane did not print the even greater cartoon in the Evening Journal.

Gouzenko Predicts War With Russia In 10 Years; We Should Encourage High-Placed Russians To Desert Kremlin; U. S. Must Penetrate Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON—Igor Gouzenko, the Soviet code clerk who exposed the spy ring in Canada, had some potent advice to offer during my second interview with him. The advice should be particularly appropriate now that the U. S. Army in Japan has wooed and won another high-up member of the Soviet espionage apparatus, and now that purges are taking place in two important parts of the Soviet Union.

What Gouzenko told me boiled down briefly to the following:

1. There will be war between the United States and Russia in 10 years if it's left to the Soviet military and unless the United States does something to penetrate the iron curtain.

2. Scores of highly placed Russians would be glad to desert communism and join the West if they were given proper security.

3. The way to convert American Communists away from communism is by persuasion rather than terrorism before the spotlight of congressional committees.

4. The free world hasn't begun to scratch the surface in wooing the peoples behind the iron curtain. This is the real Achilles' heel of communism and the way to prevent war.

Gouzenko also said that he had never heard the name of Harry D. White mentioned while he was coding and decoding cables for the Soviet spy ring in Canada. This is probably one reason why the Senate Internal Security Committee has said so little since coming back from interviewing Gouzenko in Canada. The senators went up to Canada after various public statements about rooting out American spies, but have been strangely silent since their return.

Gouzenko did tell me, however, that he had heard from one of his colleagues returning from Moscow that the Kremlin was cooperating with an assistant to Secretary of State Stettinius during the San Francisco Conference. Alger Hiss was chief assistant to Stettinius at that time.

Supports Voice Of America

Gouzenko is a sincere, volatile, somewhat nervous gentleman who talks with his hands to supplement his sometimes inperfect English. Incidentally, he objected strenuously at first to wearing a mask during the television interview even though failure to wear a disguise would have increased the hazard of Soviet recognition and revenge, under which he lives constantly.

"The best way to reach the people behind the iron curtain is by radio," Gouzenko insisted, despite Senator McCarthy's constant belittling of the Voice of America. "Of course only a few people hear American radio broadcasts, but they tell other people. The news gets around. All people behind the iron curtain," he said, "are hungry for news. You must not neglect this."

When I told Gouzenko that the State Department was working on a plan of perfecting a small radio set about the size of a cigaret pack which could be dropped behind the iron curtain, he remarked:

"That is admirable. The Russian people will keep that and use it. They would never give it up. They like tangible gadgets from the West."

Wooing High Reds

When I asked him what he would suggest to encourage more Russians, Poles, Czechs and others with important military or diplomatic information to come over to the free world, he talked at some length.

This, incidentally, was the chief point he emphasized to Senators Jenner and McCarran when they went to Canada to interview him for a Senate Internal Security Committee. So far, their report has not been made public.

"In front of every potential escapee there is a problem," Gouzenko told me. "He has to think, 'Will he be accepted as a member of society in the free world?' So you must give him assurances in advance. He must be sure of a job, of police protection, and of material help.

"There is also a matter of human dignity involved," he continued. "Sometimes a high Russian military attache or general would like to come over to the West, but he continued on with the Soviet simply because he is afraid he will be humiliated here, and perhaps be put to work as a janitor or a doorman in front of a New York night club."

I told Gouzenko of my experience in Germany where I found various high Russian escapees had been shunted back and forth between Frankfort and Washington by the U. S. military, milked dry of their information, then allowed to sit and rot in concentration camps outside Frankfort.

Lost In Shuffle

Two years ago I persuaded 14 senators to introduce a bill to study this whole problem of Russian escapees but, like most legislation of this kind, it got lost in the shuffle.

Gouzenko emphasized that this was one thing the United States would have to pay much more attention to if we wanted important military men to desert the iron curtain. He didn't say so in direct language, but I gathered that Canada was doing a much more efficient job on this than the United States.

Regarding American or Canadian Communists, Gouzenko said: "They do not work for money, but because of a mistaken ideology. The best way to convert them is by persuasion, not terrorism. They have been misled and we should all work at correcting their wrong ideas."

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — In jousting with Russia for the affection of the German people we are handicapped by our "Trading With the Enemy Act," reportedly the work of the late Harry Dexter White.

Twice in a generation this country seized considerable German holdings in this country. Within ten years of World War I we had returned to Germany all properties seized during that conflict. Our philosophy was that we served simply as custodians until such time as hostilities had ceased, reparations had been attended to, and rightful owners properly identified.

One of White's responsibilities as assistant secretary of treasury under Henry Morgenthau was jurisdiction over alien property matters. According to Sen. Dirksen's Senate judiciary subcommittee, White was the subject of alarming (but ignored) F.B.I. reports at the time he introduced the wholly new U. S. attitude toward seized enemy properties which prevails to this day. His rewritten "Trading With the Enemy Act" called for confiscation and liquidation, rather than custodianship. It was in keeping with his plan to turn defeated Germany into a pasture.

The subcommittee, which has urged drastic changes in White's law as a means of making friends in Germany (and Japan) and encouraging trade between those countries and this, uncovered a host of injustices.

One was that of a German named Heinrich George Lutz whose $30,000 bank account in this country was seized during the war and eventually confiscated. Lutz was arrested by the Nazis in 1943 for bravely expressing anti-Nazi view, and was held there and in an insane asylum until the end of the war.

But his money, badly needed for heavy medical expenses, will not be returned by the U. S. because under the present act he is, inferentially, a Nazi! He was not imprisoned for the entire period of the war. The year and a half he spent in jail, and his proven anti-Nazism, amount to nothing under the White-conceived act.

Henry Gerken was born in Germany, became a U. S. citizen, joined the U. S. Army, won a Purple Heart in Italy, and was killed in 1944 while storming a German stronghold there. A grateful nation awarded him the Bronze Star posthumously.

Gerken willed his estate to his parents. They live in Germany, are old farmers and in great need. But the Office of Alien Property cannot fulfill the GI's last wish, because of the phrasing of "White's "Trading With the Enemy Act."

The act was condemned in advance by the American Bar Association and the American Chamber of Commerce. The State Department spoke against it. But White, who must have packed tremendous power, prevailed.

The Russians have been able to make propaganda use of many of the pathetic cases before the Office of Alien Property. They have pictured us as a greedy and heartless nation posing as world benefactors but in truth grasping and mean. Edward A. Hayes, chief counsel of the sub-committee, has recommended liquidation of the OAP. Just claims then would be paid through a reallotment of Mutual Security Administration funds.

Hayes and members of the committee feel that the only course consistent wtih American honor, tradition, and the present open-handed American foreign policy, is the return of assets to rightful owners. Hayes has said:

"This never-before-adopted policy of the United States has succeeded in alienating more sound German citizens, and American citizens of German descent, than any other act performed by our government."

Dirksen says that the way White wrote the act could mean some of the claims in the OAP might remain there 50 years before being dealt with. Britain is well along with its job of returning German properties, trademarks and patents. Colombia is clearing its books of seized German property. So is Chile. When that country announced its intentions this winter the German Federal Republic's press and information office commented: "This shows a regard for international law and sets an example which, we hope, will have worldwide effects." Meaning us.

The subcommittee investigation indicated also that Lauchlin Currie, former White House aide accused by Elizabeth Bentley and others of being a Soviet sympathizer, took a leading role in high-pressuring Switzerland to adopt a position similar to the U. S. stand on seizure and confiscation. Instead, Switzerland paid us a lump sum as a substitute for the money we would have received through Swiss confiscation of deviously held German assets.

Too bad the act can't be wiped out or softened in time for John Foster Dulles to announce the change during the Berlin meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers. It would be a propaganda tenstrike.

These Days

Lincoln And Nationalism

It has taken many generations for North and South to forget the War between the States, and even in this struggle over the fundamental principle of the rights of sovereign states to secede from the Union, it is realized more and more that had Abraham Lincoln lived, the atrocities of Reconstruction would not have taken place. The ideal upon which Lincoln risked a nation was that Americans remained Americans whatever their differences; he could not and would not have treated the South as a conquered people.

Lincoln recognized nationalism as a righteous ideal. He lived in an era when nationalism was moving men to noble sacrifice. Lincoln was born in 1809, five years before the Congress of Vienna, which altered the political face of Europe and let loose nationalistic forces which are still in ferment on all continents except the North American.

Events such as the Belgian Revolution in 1830, which separated that country from the Netherlands, are forgotten today but they must have made a great impression on the young Lincoln, backwoodsman though he was. We know that he was a reader and although in his day there was no radio and no quick telegraphic reports, the news did get through. And Lincoln must have known of the great reform bills in England between 1830 and 1846 which saved that country from revolution. And he must have known of the abolition of slavery in the British Colonies, and of the Chartist Movement, and of such personalities as Richard Cobden and John Bright.

All of the world of Lincoln's boyhood and youth was excited over Greece's war for independence, which was a dramatic outburst of a Christian nation in the Ottoman Empire. It will be recalled that the poet, Byron, threw himself into the fray, which really started in Romania, in the provinces of Wallachia and Moldavia and was strongly supported by the Russian czars.

I refer to these incidents only because in the United States during this period sympathy was nationwide for all nationalistic movements. It is therefore not surprising that in the great Lincoln-Douglas debates, which made Lincoln a national figure, he should have declared the strongly nationalistic statement: "A house divided against itself cannot stand." Further he said:

". . . I do not expect the Union to be dissolved; I do not expect the house to fall; but I do expect it will cease to be divided. It will become all one thing, or all the other."

This statement inevitably produced the War Between the States because when Lincoln was elected to the presidency by the newly founded Republican party, the issue was drawn as between nationalism and localism, just as it is drawn in our times between nationalism and internationalism by the Bricker Amendment, which has brought to a head a division that has been in the making since 1937 when Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered his Quarantine speech, which gave to our foreign policy a decisive internationalist twist.

It is too often assumed that Lincoln based his program on the immorality of Negro slavery. Actually in his first Inaugural Address he said:

"I have no purpose directly or indirectly to interfere with the institution of slavery in the states where it exists."

But on the subject of secession, in the same address, he reiterated his nationalistic doctrine:

". . . No state, upon its own mere action, can lawfully get out of the Union."

It is impossible to guess what might have happened in history had events taken a different turn or had the wrong personality led the nation at a given moment. What would have happened to Christianity in Europe had there been no Charles Martel, no Charlemagne, no John Sobieski, no Napoleon, no Lenin? We might guess but we shall never know.

But we do know, because the figures are so close to us and the events are still part of our lives, that had Abraham Lincoln, the gangling, homely backwoodsman who lifted himself from a dreamy rail-splitter in New Salem, Ill., to become a fine lawyer, a profound intellect and a moral force—had such a man not appeared in the 1860s, this nation might have been divided like the Balkans into many conflicting states.

Lincoln recognized that nationalism means strength, but that it must be supported by traditional morality. Thus, he grows in stature as the nation he saved grows in stature.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Dwight Eisenhower as a military man knows that a good offense is as necessary in war as a good defense, but he doesn't seem to have grasped the importance of the same rule as applied to political warfare. Unfortunately, the President again allowed himself at his press conference to be entrapped by Trumanite reporters into pulling the rug from beneath his own party's spokesmen. He did it once before on Attorney General Brownell when the Harry Dexter White case was first publicized, and he now deals a body blow to his own national chairman, Leonard Hall.

For several days the Democratic strategists have been trying to undercut or nullify the effect of the forthcoming Lincoln Day speeches by the Republicans. Entirely oblivious to the bitter and irresponsible attacks made by high officials of the Roosevelt-Truman administrations against the Republican Party as a whole for many years, the cry now has gone up that the Eisenhower Administration is countenancing some sort of violation of the rules of political etiquette. Mr. Eisenhower, whose knowledge of the insidious tactics of politics is limited but who certainly might have been briefed on the subject in advance of his press conference, left the impression with many reporters that he disavows what Chairman Hall of the Republican National Committee, his own chief of staff Sherman Adams, and Governor Dewey have been saying in their political speeches.

When news of what the President had said at his press conference reached Capitol Hill, there was rejoicing among the various Democrats at the way a wedge had been driven between Mr. Eisenhower and the Republicans now out on speaking tours.

The rules of political combat are to hit hard at the opposition's past errors. If Mr. Eisenhower is naive enough to believe that he can conduct the Presidency on a kid-glove basis of aloofness toward the preceding Administration, he will be weakening the morale of his own party in the Congressional elections this autumn.

There are, of course, extremes in political campaigning. But basically the American people believe in holding a political party responsible for what its officials did when they were in office, and they are always glad to get the facts about the mistakes that have been made. The late FDR from 1932 to 1944 never let an opportunity go by to take a crack at the Republican Party as a party of "depression." He assailed all businessmen as "economic royalists." On nation-wide trips paid for by the American people—which he facetiously called "non-political" journeys—he denounced the entire Republican Party as a faithless institution.

In every campaign, and between campaigns, the country was reminded by the Democrats of the acts of the Herbert Hoover Administration with a scathing line of attack. No Republican members of Congress did the "cry baby" act then. It would have done them no good, anyway, for Harry Truman "poured it on" when he delivered his "give-'em-hell" speeches, which were so often acclaimed by the very Democrats who are now shouting "unfair."

In the election of November 1952, the people "liked Ike," but primarily they voted against the party of Harry Truman. They voted against corruption and Communism in government as well as bungling in military preparedness before Korea and bad judgement after the Korean War began.

Naturally, there are Democrats who want the Republicans to keep silent and say no more about the Harry Dexter Whites and the Alger Hisses and the Klaus Fuchses and forget all those "red herring" statements by which Mr. Truman sought to minimize the cost to the American people of treason. Mr. Eisenhower now orders the Republican Party to be gagged on such issues, he will be flying in the face of a fundamental principle that parties at all times should be held accountable for their mistakes until and unless they show they have repented.

The "mess" in Washington was one of the things the people heard a great deal about in the last campaign. Now that the Republicans are able to see what's in the files and what's missing and have discovered how records were destroyed and personnel files were tampered with, certainly there are Democrats who want to see these things supressed and covered up. But will Mr. Eisenhower agree to such a cover-up? It would be a big victory for the Democratic strategists if he did.

The argument is made that the votes of the Democrats are needed in Congress to support the President's program. If Mr. Eisenhower, however, has to buy their support by suppressing the facts about the corruption and malfeasance of the Roosevelt-Truman administrations and the laxity about Communists in government, the country will lose respect for him as a political leader and his opponents in Congress will be found exacting every day a higher and higher price for their cooperation.

Mr. Eisenhower's legislative proposals will stand or fall on their merits. If they are in the public interest, the Democrats will have to vote for them anyway or be defeated at the polls. They cannot seem to be vindictive or perhaps in some cases more concerned about keeping the Harry Dexter Whites and the Alger Hisses out of campaign attacks than about the important legislation wanted by Americans, irrespective of party.

Parents Winning Boy's Polio Battle With Washer, French Fryer, Work

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—The courageous parents of Dale Vander Kaay, 4, are winning his battle against polio with a washing machine, french fryer and untold hours of work.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Vander Kaay — against the advice of physicians — assumed full care of their son during his convalescence.

They are thankful for and proud of the results they have achieved.

The ordeal started in July 1952, when the Vander Kaay's three sons, Dick, now 11, Donald, 8, and Dale were stricken with polio within a few hours.

The older boys escaped lightly, but little Dale couldn't so much as wiggle his toes. After two months, however, he was ready to be moved to a convalescent home. But Mrs. Vander Kaay said no. She wanted to take care of him herself.

Doctors were opposed, but they could not refuse because parental consent is necessary to keep a patient after hospital release.

So Dale went home and the Vander Kaay's went to work. That first month Mrs. Vander Kaay applied 186 hot packs to Dale—eight a day at first, then six.

The french fryer was used to dry the outer layers of the hot packs so that only dry cloth would touch the child. Moist heat was obtained from the center of the pack.

Meanwhile the family washing machine was going most of the time to provide fresh wrappings and blankets. Dale's body was so rigid that four or five double blankets had to be placed under him in a tub when he was given hot baths.

"Then he became like a new baby," Mrs. Vander Kaay recalls. "He had to learn to sit up."

Now Dale has a rocking horse for exercise, a frame with wheels to help him walk and a modified bicycle device.

He wears steel braces on his legs and has a steel back support, but he can get around the house quite rapidly and can travel with the family.

Vander Kaay and his wife, Dorothy, both 36, brush aside the hours of care and work devoted to Dale as they watch him at play.

"It was worth it," they agree.

FREIGHTER AGROUND—The freighter Harry Lundeberg lies awash on rocks at the tip of Lower California, where it grounded this week. The bow of the Liberty ship was crushed aft for 20 feet and its 36 crewmen took to lifeboats. They were picked up by another ship an hour later. The scene is several hundred miles south of San Diego. Officials said efforts will be made to refloat the ship and salvage 3,500 tons of gypsum. Ship and cargo are valued at two million dollars.

Saudi Arabia Rejects U. S. Military Aid

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The State Department said today that Saudi Arabia, a possible link in a Near East anti-Communist alliance, has turned down an American offer of limited military assistance.

However, this action by Saudi Arabia's new government was not viewed as a permanent block to a projected defense alignment with Pakistan, Turkey and Iran. Nor did it affect a U.S. agreement for joint use of a big air base at Dhahran.

A State Department statement said Saudi Arabia initiated the question of a military assistance grant some time ago. Negotiations were carried on with King Ibn Saud.

However, King Ibn Saud died in November, 1953. His son and successor, King Saud, continued the negotiations until recently, when he terminated them.

It was reported the new King was unwilling to tie his country too closely to the West.

Nevertheless, American officials did not appear concerned over King Saud's decision. They seemed satisfied Saud maintained his father's life long friendliness toward the West.

Reds Report West Feud

BERLIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Soviet-controlled East German news agency ADN put out a series of "urgent bulletins" last night claiming Britain's Prime Minister Churchill is feuding with President Eisenhower.

It said Churchill has protested to Eisenhower against what it called "rude and stubborn tactics" of Secretary of State Dulles at the Berlin Big Four conference.

Merry-Go-Round

When I asked what he thought of persuasion by hauling Communists before congressional committees he said that this was likely to discourage their conversion, though he said he did not want to criticize any senator or any Senate committee.

"The Russian people," Gouzenko said, "have the most friendly attitude toward the American people. They admire your technical achievements, your good spirit, your spiritual strength, this is what particularly amazed the Russian people about Americans. And they admire your ability to do things, to get moving, and not to stay in one place.

"If peace is left to the Russian people rather than their government," he concluded, "I would say that they will wish peace forever with the American country."

ANPA To Confer With Justice Dept. On Inquiry Data

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers Assn. said today it will confer shortly with Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. Stanley Barnes on information the Justice Department seeks in twin probes of advertising and newspaper publishing associations.

Barnes, chief of the department's Anti-Trust Division, disclosed last month investigation of the newspaper and advertising business was under way.

"The Board of Directors of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. has considered the request of the Department of Justice for the files of the association relating to advertising practices in the newspaper publishing field," the association said in a statement.

"The board has authorized a committee of the board to discuss the request with Judge Stanley Barnes, head of the Anti-Trust division, so as to give information on operations of the association and seek further light on information which the department seeks. It is expected the conference with Judge Barnes will be held shortly."

In disclosing the investigation, Barnes said it had "to do with certain aspects of newspaper publishing."

"It has not yet progressed into a full-scale investigation and there has not yet been any determination or any grand jury action," Barnes added.

"I can't say what it is about, except to say that it exists."

He said the probe grew out of complaints received by the Justice Department, but would not state their source.

Society Plans Project For Celebration

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Cresaptown Church decided to sell commemorative plates as a project at the Sesquicentennial celebration to be held at the church in July.

A committee from the society was appointed to work with the Anniversary committee at the meeting earlier in the week at the church. It consists of Mrs. Julia Lewis, Mrs. Elaine Crowe, Mrs. Anne Shank, Mrs. Blanche Flanagan, Mrs. Rannah Powell, Mrs. Eva May, and Mrs. Edna Lafferty.

It was decided to conduct a study course on "Alcohol and Christian Responsibility." Earl E. Manges will speak at the first meeting. Plans also were completed for Zone 1 meeting to be held at 7:30 tonight. Rev. John Bayley Jones will speak on "This Is Your Life." It was reported that a gift was sent to Elisabeth Bantell, missionary.

Mrs. Crowe led the devotionals. Her subject was, "Rural Negroes and the Church." Secretaries reports were given and 34 sick calls were reported by the group. The society was invited to participate in the World Day of Prayer service to be held March 5 at Potomac Park United Brethren Church. The meeting was concluded with the reading of a letter from Pearl Willis Jones, missionary in Southern Rhodesia, Africa. It described the great need for care for the sick children in that province.

She also pointed out that the words are not for one people and one age, but for all people of all times.

Mrs. Morgan Smith talked of the Great Books program of the American Association of University Women group, which is to take 10 years to complete. She discussed and read excerpts from "Samson Agonistes," by Milton.

A discussion of both books by the group followed.

Tea was served with Mrs. Walsh assisted by Mrs. R. L. Stallings, Mrs. Courtney Kidwell and Mrs. Bruce. The Valentine motif was carried out in the decorations with red and white carnations centering the tea table.

Tough, Blustering Brooklyn Pays Homage To Little, Old Church Started 300 Years Ago

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Brooklyn, a big, tough, blustering mixed ocean of humanity, is doing homage to a little, old church.

Not just a half-way job, either, but the whole works.

There are meetings and proclamations, banquets and pageants, and speeches and parades. All kinds of people, black and white, Swede and Italian, butcher and banker, are putting their hearts into it, in many ways, in many tongues.

In itself, the church isn't so much.

But its life spans one of the most graphic transformations in the religious development of American democracy. It holds a story of birth and change, of growth and pain and especially of discovery.

The church was the first one Brooklyn ever had.

It was started exactly 300 years ago this week, when more trees than people grew in Brooklyn. Liberty-fired Dutch Protestants built it in Flatbush and thus planted a seed that bore amazing fruit.

Protestants were then the only worshippers in old "Breucklen." But this changed greatly. They now are a small minority. Incoming waves of Roman Catholics and Jews and Moslems and Eastern Orthodox people have left them mere grains in the heap.

But the spirit they handed down, the discovery that emerged in the years of flux and tension and huge shifting expansion and adjustment, still etches vividly the many-hued tapestry of Brooklyn.

It is the idea that all manner of people, from everywhere and anywhere, of all colors and habits and tastes and strata and voices, can be neighbors and like it.

That is part of what Brooklyn is celebrating all this year in remembering the old church.

"It brings to mind a principle basic to our nation's liberty—the freedom of worship," he said. "This freedom is our richest heritage."

Borough President John Cashmore proclaimed 1954 "Brooklyn Protestanism Year." And Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said the observance marks "proud developments in our free republic," begun by Protestants.

Queen Juliana of the Netherlands also sent congratulations.

"Faith could span an immense ocean in the 17th century," she said. "May it now know how to span the enormous difficulties of our times."

Brooklyn got its first church when peg-legged Peter Stuyvesant, Dutch governor of New Amsterdam (New York) sent Rev. Johannes Theodorus Polhemus to minister to the Dutch farmers settled across the East River.

The Dutch Reformed Church of Flatbush still stands on the same site. The dominie also started two other churches, the Flatlands Dutch Reformed Church, still at the same place, and the old First Reformed Church.

Since then, with the successive arrival of Methodists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Baptists, Congregationalists, Lutherans and others, the number of Protestant churches has multiplied to about 450.

But this is only a fraction of the some 5,000 churches of all faiths whose spires prick the skyline as you view Brooklyn from New York harbor—a sight which won for Brooklyn the name of "The City of Churches."

Of Brooklyn's mingled three million people, only about 210,000 are Protestant — about seven per per cent are Jewish, 19 per cent Catholic, six per cent Eastern Orthodox, and the rest other religions or not church members.

This assorted religious family often has shown a fiery solidarity.

When the Ku Klux Klan bared its group-hating fangs after World War I, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders joined strength to smash it.

In those days, Roman Catholic Msgr. John L. Belford, Jewish Rabbi Alexander Lyons and Congregationalist Rev. S. Parkes Cadman (the nation's first radio minister) helped found the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

This agency, with roots in Brooklyn, has become a major nationwide force for good will among all faiths.

The freedom-for-all tradition has flamed down through the years in Brooklyn.

In the fight against slavery, Brooklyn's African Wesleyan Methodist Episcopal Church, oldest Negro church in the world, was a major station on the "underground railway" to shelter slaves fleeing north.

The dynamic Henry Ward Beecher, of Brooklyn's Plymouth Congregational Church, is credited by historians as lighting the flame for full emancipation. Lincoln himself consulted him.

Events commemorating this past will depict 300 years of Protestant history at the Academy of Music Opera Hall. There will be parades in June, with 100,000 Sunday School children in the march.

Hundreds of churches are holding special services. On Feb. 24 and 25, pageants with a cast of 150

Lumber Industry Believes It Can Control Oak Wilt

MEMPHIS, Feb. 11 (AP) — After three years of research, the lumber industry believes it can control oak wilt—the most dangerous invader America's forests have ever known.

The announcement was made yesterday by S. M. Nickey Jr., chairman of the National Oak Wilt Research Committee.

The disease, he said, can be reduced from a powerful menace to a mere nuisance, blocking potential losses estimated in the billions.

Until 1949, the fungus had been noted only in Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa and Northern Missouri, where the oak is relatively unimportant. Then it started spreading.

By 1953 the disease had entrenched itself in more than 18 states, from Kansas and Nebraska on the West to North Carolina, and Pennsylvania. Parts of Western Maryland have been affected by it.

Details of the control methods were not made public.

Tough, Blustering Brooklyn Pays Homage To Little, Old Church Started 300 Years Ago

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Brooklyn, a big, tough, blustering mixed ocean of humanity, is doing homage to a little, old church.

Not just a half-way job, either, but the whole works.

There are meetings and proclamations, banquets and pageants, and speeches and parades. All kinds of people, black and white, Swede and Italian, butcher and banker, are putting their hearts into it, in many ways, in many tongues.

In itself, the church isn't so much.

But its life spans one of the most graphic transformations in the religious development of American democracy. It holds a story of birth and change, of growth and pain and especially of discovery.

The church was the first one Brooklyn ever had.

It was started exactly 300 years ago this week, when more trees than people grew in Brooklyn. Liberty-fired Dutch Protestants built it in Flatbush and thus planted a seed that bore amazing fruit.

Protestants were then the only worshippers in old "Breucklen." But this changed greatly. They now are a small minority. Incoming waves of Roman Catholics and Jews and Moslems and Eastern Orthodox people have left them mere grains in the heap.

But the spirit they handed down, the discovery that emerged in the years of flux and tension and huge shifting expansion and adjustment, still etches vividly the many-hued tapestry of Brooklyn.

It is the idea that all manner of people, from everywhere and anywhere, of all colors and habits and tastes and strata and voices, can be neighbors and like it.

That is part of what Brooklyn is celebrating all this year in remembering the old church.

"It brings to mind a principle basic to our nation's liberty—the freedom of worship," he said. "This freedom is our richest heritage."

Borough President John Cashmore proclaimed 1954 "Brooklyn Protestanism Year." And Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said the observance marks "proud developments in our free republic," begun by Protestants.

Queen Juliana of the Netherlands also sent congratulations.

"Faith could span an immense ocean in the 17th century," she said. "May it now know how to span the enormous difficulties of our times."

Brooklyn got its first church when peg-legged Peter Stuyvesant, Dutch governor of New Amsterdam (New York) sent Rev. Johannes Theodorus Polhemus to minister to the Dutch farmers settled across the East River.

The Dutch Reformed Church of Flatbush still stands on the same site. The dominie also started two other churches, the Flatlands Dutch Reformed Church, still at the same place, and the old First Reformed Church.

Since then, with the successive arrival of Methodists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Baptists, Congregationalists, Lutherans and others, the number of Protestant churches has multiplied to about 450.

But this is only a fraction of the some 5,000 churches of all faiths whose spires prick the skyline as you view Brooklyn from New York harbor—a sight which won for Brooklyn the name of "The City of Churches."

Of Brooklyn's mingled three million people, only about 210,000 are Protestant — about seven per cent are Jewish, 19 per cent Catholic, six per cent Eastern Orthodox, and the rest other religions or not church members.

This assorted religious family often has shown a fiery solidarity.

When the Ku Klux Klan bared its group-hating fangs after World War I, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders joined strength to smash it.

In those days, Roman Catholic Msgr. John L. Belford, Jewish Rabbi Alexander Lyons and Congregationalist Rev. S. Parkes Cadman (the nation's first radio minister) helped found the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

This agency, with roots in Brooklyn, has become a major nationwide force for good will among all faiths.

The freedom-for-all tradition has flamed down through the years in Brooklyn.

In the fight against slavery, Brooklyn's African Wesleyan Methodist Episcopal Church, oldest Negro church in the world, was a major station on the "underground railway" to shelter slaves fleeing north.

The dynamic Henry Ward Beecher, of Brooklyn's Plymouth Congregational Church, is credited by historians as lighting the flame for full emancipation. Lincoln himself consulted him.

Events commemorating this past will depict 300 years of Protestant history at the Academy of Music Opera Hall. There will be parades in June, with 100,000 Sunday School children in the march.

began last month, under sponsorship of Brooklyn's Division of the Protestant Council of New York.

Hundreds of churches are holding special services. On Feb. 24 and 25, pageants with a cast of 150

Baltimore Squabble Over Magistrates Practicing Law Back At Starting Point

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP) — That squabble in Baltimore over magistrates practicing law before other magistrates is back where it started.

The practice has been criticized and Gov. McKeldin issued a directive against it.

In a ruling today, the attorney general's office pointed out that the directive "does not have the force of law."

The question of whether such practice constitutes "ethical misconduct," Assistant Attorney General H. Clifton Owens wrote, is a matter "to be decided either by the Committee on Ethics or by the Grievance Committee of the Bar Association."

The ruling had been asked by Magistrate A. Risley Ensor before trying a case in which the defense counsel was Jack M. Fox, attorney and substitute police magistrate.

Owens wrote to Ensor that "As far as we know there is no law (in Baltimore) which prohibits a substitute magistrate from appearing as counsel under the facts and circumstances outlined in your letter.

"While it is true that the governor's directive is intended to correct a practice which has been vigorously criticized throughout . . . the state . . . it does not have the force of law as we see it . . .

"As far as you are concerned, or any other magistrate who might sit in the case, it is our opinion that you are helpless to do anything else but permit the attorney in question to represent his client . . .

"The very fact that there is a law in at least some of the counties prohibiting this practice indicates to us that, in the absence of such a law applying to Baltimore, the judges of the Traffic Court can do nothing about it."

"WOMAN OF 1953" — Miss Amelia Anthony, Whiteface, Texas, has been named the "Woman of 1953" by a jury of national women's organizations. She founded and directs Girlstown, a haven for young women from broken homes.

Probers Deplore Strike's Handling

HAGERSTOWN, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Washington County Grand Jury reported tonight that use of the sheriff's office as a law enforcement agency is an "outdated and outmoded practice."

The grand jury, reporting on a four-day investigation of handling by the sheriff's office of disturbances in a strike at the Federal Silk Mills in Williamsport, said it had not desired to censor any particular individual or group of individuals.

"But at the same time, the grand jury does not condone the manner in which the situation was handled," the report added.

The investigation in which 18 persons appeared before the grand jury, was confined to the question of whether adequate law enforcement had been provided and was not concerned with the dispute existing between labor and management at the mills.

"It was conclusively ascertained that various employes requested assistance to enter the plant for the purpose of going to work," the report continued.

"In some of these instances their requests were not complied with due either to misunderstanding, neglect or fear.

"It was quite obvious that an adequate police force was not present on various occasions at this plant. It is also obvious that Judge Joseph D. Mish was not appraised by the sheriff's department of the true situation at the plant."

Old Trolleys Will Make Final Run

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 11 (AP)—Some 100 officials have been invited to ceremonies Feb. 20 which will mark the end of the last interurban trolley run in Maryland.

Potomac Edison Co., which recently obtained Public Service Commission approval to convert the scenic run between Frederick and Thurmont to buses, has arranged the ceremonies.

Two trolleys, both more than 30 years old, will leave Frederick at 11 a.m. On their return the officials will attend a luncheon at the Francis Scott Key Hotel.

The last run of the old trolleys will mark the end of an interurban trolley network which began in Maryland in 1886 under steam power and was electrified in 1909.

Potomac Edison had to abandon the trolleys because it was impossible to replace them or obtain parts for them. They differ from modern-day streetcars in that they run on a standard railroad track instead of the narrow gauge used by most trolleys.

Potomac will maintain the service between Frederick and Thurmont with buses, following a route nearly parallel to the tracks which wind through the countryside—a favorite of commuters.

Potomac will continue to handle freight over the old tracks, substituting a regular railroad freight car for the trolleys but passengers will have to go by bus.

Baltimore Negro Named Assistant State's Attorney

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP) — George H. Rosedom became the first Negro in Maryland history to win a prosecuting post today when he was appointed assistant state's attorney of Baltimore city.

He was appointed by State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro. The judges of Baltimore's Supreme Bench approved the appointment today.

Rosedom for the past 11 years has been probation officer under the supervision of the Supreme Bench.

He is a former social worker for the Department of Public Welfare.

Friendly Argument Ends In Boy's Death At Training School

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP) — A friendly argument over the relative merits of city and country life, ended in the death of a 17-year-old boy in the National Training School for Boys.

Dr. Louis Jacobs, superintendent of the institution, said he was certain after interviews with 30 witnesses that the death of Robert Lawrence Blackwelder was accidental.

He said Blackwelder and another youth argued about town and country life and Blackwelder said, "Well, let's bout about it."

He said the boys sparred for a moment before counselors intervened, and that no hard blows were struck.

Blackwelder collapsed after the scuffle. An autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death.

Bill Cutting Savings Bank Taxes Upheld

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 11 (AP) — The Court of Appeals today upheld the controversial 1953 legislation reducing savings bank taxes.

The Baltimore city government and Hyman A. Pressman, one of its most frequent critics, had contended the act was "deceitful because it was so poorly drawn up.

The appeals court, in an opinion written by Judge Edward S. Delaplaine, said of the title of the act under question "gave more notice than was actually necessary, and in this particular case the inconsistency was harmless."

The law would whittle down the franchise tax on mutuel savings banks until it reached a permanent level of 10 cents on each $100 of deposits in 1958. The rate now is 25 cents.

Hanover, Pa., Woman Suffers Fatal Burns

HANOVER, Pa., Feb. 11 (AP) — Mrs. Etta Helwig, 79, died today of burns suffered when her clothing caught fire as her semi-invalid husband, Martin L. Helwig, 80, sat helpless unable to snuff out the flames.

Her clothing caught fire while she was preparing the evening meal at a gas stove yesterday. Her screams attracted the attention of neighbors but she suffered fatal burns before they reached her.

Hagerstown Civic Leader Fined $10,000 On Federal Income Tax Evasion Charge

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP)—Leonard G. Mathias, 53-year-old Hagerstown business man and civic leader, was fined $10,000 in Federal Court today on a charge of federal income tax evasion.

Mathias, a partner in the Hagerstown Paint & Glass Co., has served on the city's Park Board and Housing Authority.

He pleaded guilty to understating his income for 1945.

U. S. Attorney James Murphy told Judge William C. Coleman the defendant reported income of $14,903 and paid a tax of $4,904.42 for the year.

Murphy said federal estimates put the amount of Mathias' actual income at $28,389.05 and the tax due at $11,803.74. He was accused of failing to report stock dividends.

Defense attorneys Thomas Kenney and David Byron argued "substantial justice" would be served if the defendant were fined and not sentenced to prison.

Kenney said Mathias suffered acute mental anguish ever since the investigation into his tax affairs began six years ago. Kenney said the suffering was more acute because of the defendan't community stature and civic activities.

Character witnesses appearing for Mathias included his cousin, Charles Mathias, Frederick attorney; C. Neill Baylor, general manage of the Hagerstown Herald and Mail; Ellsworth Roulette, Hagerstown bank president, and John B. Ferguson, head of an engineering firm.

The last run of the old trolleys will mark the end of an interurban trolley network which began in Maryland in 1886 under steam power and was electrified in 1909.

Potomac Edison had to abandon the trolleys because it was impossible to replace them or obtain parts for them. They differ from modern-day streetcars in that they run on a standard railroad track instead of the narrow gauge used by most trolleys.

Potomac will maintain the service between Frederick and Thurmont with buses, following a route nearly parallel to the tracks which wind through the countryside—a favorite of commuters.

Potomac will continue to handle freight over the old tracks, substituting a regular railroad freight car for the trolleys but passengers will have to go by bus.

Baltimore Negro Named Assistant State's Attorney

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP) — George H. Rosedom became the first Negro in Maryland history to win a prosecuting post today when he was appointed assistant state's attorney of Baltimore city.

He was appointed by State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro. The judges of Baltimore's Supreme Bench approved the appointment today.

Rosedom for the past 11 years has been probation officer under the supervision of the Supreme Bench.

He is a former social worker for the Department of Public Welfare.

RIVER HIDES DIESEL AND CREW—Probing the swift waters of the Deschutes River from a bos'ns chair, Lloyd Holliday apparently found the diesel engine of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway near Maupin, Ore., but Fred Devine, Portland salvage expert in bow of boat, said it was impossible for divers to go down and hook it. The engine hit a slide in the gorge Jan. 31 and plunged into the river. The engineer and firemen are thought still in the cab.

Chrysler Sales Break Record, But Profit Drops

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Chrysler Corp., one of motordom's big three, sold well over three billion dollars worth of products in 1953 for an all-time high, while registering a 5 per cent drop in profits, the company reported today.

Net income amounted to $74,788,617 equal to $8.59 per common share, compared with 1952 earnings of $78,696,599 or $9.04 a share.

Hagerstown Civic Leader Fined $10,000 On Federal Income Tax Evasion Charge

BALTIMORE, Feb. 11 (AP)—Leonard G. Mathias, 53-year-old Hagerstown business man and civic leader, was fined $10,000 in Federal Court today on a charge of federal income tax evasion.

Mathias, a partner in the Hagerstown Paint & Glass Co., has served on the city's Park Board and Housing Authority.

He pleaded guilty to understating his income for 1945.

U. S. Attorney James Murphy told Judge William C. Coleman the defendant reported income of $14,903 and paid a tax of $4,904.42 for the year.

Murphy said federal estimates put the amount of Mathias' actual income at $28,389.05 and the tax due at $11,803.74. He was accused of failing to report stock dividends.

Defense attorneys Thomas Kenney and David Byron argued "substantial justice" would be served if the defendant were fined and not sentenced to prison.

Kenney said Mathias suffered acute mental anguish ever since the investigation into his tax affairs began six years ago. Kenney said the suffering was more acute because of the defendan't community stature and civic activities.

Report Is Presented By Sight Committee At Lions Luncheon

The Cumberland Lions Club in January sponsored eye examinations for eight school children, purchased glasses for eight students and made arrangements for two eye operations, according to a report presented at a luncheon meeting of the club's board of directors at Central YMCA.

Louis V. Shinnamon, president, made the following appointments: Woodward Pealer, chairman, and Ernest Treat and Karl Bachman, co-chairmen of the sports car show program committee, and Thomas Blash, chairman, and Gordon Bowie, Gordon Leatherman, Andrew Saliga, Jack Siehler and Oscar Wolfe, to the father-son-daughter dinner committee.

It was announced that the club had contributed $50 to the youth government program of the YMCA. Henry Duke, chairman, presented a report on the Charter Night affair which will be held Thursday evening, March 4.

Program Is Planned By Carver Singers

Carver High School Glee Club will sing at the 7:30 p. m. service at First Methodist Church Sunday in observance of Race Relations Week.

In addition, Earle F. Bracey, principal of Carver High School, will speak at the 10:45 a. m. Sunday worship service and again at the evening program.

The selections to be sung by the Glee Club are "Jacob's Ladder," spiritual arranged by Wilson; "Born To Be Free," by Ralph E. Williams, and "Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Seen," with Norwood Edmondson as soloist.

Miss Mary Robb, music teacher, will be accompanist.

Water Towers Being Removed

The Diesel age is taking its toll with water towers of the Western Maryland Railway in Cumberland.

Railway officials noted that the tub along the railroad across from the track supervisors office in the rear of the Algonquin Hotel is being demolished.

Maintenance of way crews have completed taking the tub off this tower and are jackhammering the concrete bases to clear the site.

Another to be torn down will be that tower in the rear of the Cumberland Brewing Company at City Junction.

That leaves the railroad with only one source of water for its steam engines. That is a double-tub tower at Maryland Junction in Ridgeley.

The railway has practically completed its Dieselization program and has only a few steam engines in use.

Assistance Will Be Given To State Income Taxpayers

Cumberland and six communities throughout Western Maryland will be visited by field representatives of the state comptroller for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in filing income returns for 1953.

Places and dates are as follows: Cumberland, 9 Market Street, March 11 to April 15; Frostburg, Fidelity Savings Bank, February 23; Westernport, City Building, February 16 and 17; Luke, Devon Club, February 24 to 26.

Maryland ended its 1952 fiscal year with a general surplus of $15,481,041.19.

Under Maryland law, if any person fails to file a state return when required, the comptroller may impose a penalty of not exceeding ten per cent of the tax found to be due.

The willful refusal on the part of any taxpayer to file a return as required, or the willful failure of any taxpayer to pay when due any tax or installment of any tax, is a misdemeanor in each instance, subject to a fine not exceeding $500, or imprisonment not exceeding six months, or both, in the discretion of the court.

The law provides that the full amount of all delinquent tax due the state, together with any interest, penalty, additional amount or addition to said tax, including in each case a delinquent fee of $5, shall be a lien in favor of the state upon all property and all rights to property, real or personal, belonging to such person.

The lien shall extend to and cover all salary, wages and compensation for personal services of every kind.

Employers shall be notified of such lein and they shall not, thereafter pay employes named in the lien any salary or compensation in excess of $15 a week until the lien has been released.

Happy Minds Is 4-H Club Theme In West Virginia

KEYSER—"Happy Minds," the theme for 1954 of West Virginia 4-H Clubs was introduced at a meeting of the Burlington Klover 4-H Club. The county health program, consisting of (1) exhibits for National 4-H Clubs, March 6-14; (2) a page of 4-H information in the newspaper for National 4-H club week; (3) Stunts for field day; (4) local club health programs; (5) health programs for local organizations; (6) a county health program for civic clubs, and (7) a county King and Queen of Health, presented by Joseph Reed.

The theme, "Happy Minds," was carried out with devotions and readings. Elizabeth Reed read Scripture; Robert Stickley gave a poem, "I Know Something Good About You;" Joseph Reed, "Health of Body Dependant on Soul," and Janet Bane, "See the Bright Side."

An interesting discussion was held on a charting exhibit for National 4-H Club Week. Miss Jean Core, home demonstration agent, for the county, presented a Foley pastry frame to Elizabeth Reed, who had the highest score in the county in the Baked Dessert project. Her score was 98.5. Miss Core also asked the club to plan for presenting a radio program.

Happy Minds Is 4-H Club Theme In West Virginia

KEYSER—"Happy Minds," the theme for 1954 of West Virginia 4-H Clubs was introduced at a meeting of the Burlington Klover 4-H Club. The county health program, consisting of (1) exhibits for National 4-H Clubs, March 6-14; (2) a page of 4-H information in the newspaper for National 4-H club week; (3) Stunts for field day; (4) local club health programs; (5) health programs for local organizations; (6) a county health program for civic clubs, and (7) a county King and Queen of Health, presented by Joseph Reed.

The theme, "Happy Minds," was carried out with devotions and readings. Elizabeth Reed read Scripture; Robert Stickley gave a poem, "I Know Something Good About You;" Joseph Reed, "Health of Body Dependant on Soul," and Janet Bane, "See the Bright Side."

An interesting discussion was held on a charting exhibit for National 4-H Club Week. Miss Jean Core, home demonstration agent, for the county, presented a Foley pastry frame to Elizabeth Reed, who had the highest score in the county in the Baked Dessert project. Her score was 98.5. Miss Core also asked the club to plan for presenting a radio program.

Area Dairymen Hear Report On New Silage Preservative

Silage can be preserved indefinitely for about 65 cents a ton, John P. Dietrick, extension dairyman for the University of Maryland, reported at a meeting of some 100 dairymen and cattle raisers in City Hall yesterday.

The chemical, sodium metabisulfite, is available fron local supply firms at from seven to eight cents a pound, and can be applied by rigging up a fertilizer hopper or blower as the silage is being stored.

He said the use of the chemical is not needed when grassland crops can be cured properly, but that if they must be put up wet, a preservative should be used at the rate of about eight pounds a ton.

A. V. Krewatch, an agriculture engineer at the University of Maryland, talked about new methods of dairy barn construction at the afternoon session. He told the farmers that he would come to this county whenever possible to advise them on specific barn construction problems

The speaker noted that it is impossible to cite specific requirements for barn construction because they are determined by the market on which the farmer sells his milk. His construction must comply with the code requirements of the dairies in the community where his milk is sold.

Stanley P. Stabler and Boyd T. Whittle emphasized feeds in their remarks.

K. O. Nelson, Pinto, presided at the meeting sponsored by Allegany County farm agent, R. F. McHenry and his assistant, Joseph M. Steger.

The Brotemarkle firm was awarded the contract to build the bridge for $280,694.50. Property acquisition, engineering fees and incidentals are expected to push the cost over the $300,000 mark.

The contract called for the work to get under way by February 1 and for the new span to be opened for traffic by November 1.

Will Of Former Luke Mayor Is Filed In Court

Wills of three persons, one of them a former mayor of Luke who once won the national trapshoot championship at Vandalia, Ohio, were admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

The former mayor and trapshoot champion, Oliver D. Williams, died December 26 at the age of 87. Under terms of his will he left $100 cash bequests to Kathleen Fields, Mary Fields, Evelyn Rounds and Mrs. John (Leota) Miller.

He also left his automobile and guns to John W. Williams, one of his three sons. All of his trophies and prizes won in shooting tournaments were bequeathed to his three sons, George Oliver, Harry Robert and John W. Williams, each to get an equal number. All the rest of his estate was left equally to the three sons. John W. Williams was named executor of the estate but failed to qualify. John B. Determan of Westernport, a friend of the deceased, qualified as administrator c.t.a. of the estate. The Williams will was dated July 18, 1945.

Also admitted to probate was the will of George Franklin Weltman, who was an 86-year-old retired B & O engineer at the time of his death November 14. A son, George Franklin Weltman Jr., 133 Marion Street, qualified as executor.

Weltman left his widow a life interest in the residence at 100 Potomac Street. He bequeathed $50 each to four children of a previous marriage, Esther Julia Weltman, August Frederick Weltman, Helen Virginia Purington, Alexandria, Va., and Luther Marion Weltman, Corriganville. All the rest of the estate was left equally to five children of his last marriage, Margaret Jane Scroogs, Marjorie Charlotte Miller, George Franklin Weltman Jr., Lawrence Millard Weltman and Alfred Herman Weltman. The will was dated January 4, 1952.

The will of Miss Katherine Bannatyne of Eckhart, who died January 9, also was admitted to probate. A nephew, Thomas Elias, of Frostburg, qualified as executor. Miss Bannatyne divided her estate four ways. She left 25 per cent to her various nieces and nephews, and equal percentages to two sisters, Mary Harriman and Bessie Grim, and another 25 per cent to the children of Mrs. Margaret Elias, a third sister, who preceded her in death. The will was dated May 1, 1951.

Make A Cookie Valentine With Basic Cookie Mix

All out of new ideas for Valentine? Try the cookie kind. Cookie Valentines will be done in a twinkling if you make them with a package of basic cookie mix from the grocery store. It takes only two minutes to blend.

Great Big Heart Cookie Valentine

Follow directions on package of cookie mix for Rolled Cookies. Cut a cardboard pattern of a big heart. Place over rolled dough, and cut around heart with small, sharp knife. Under "V" of heart, make two holes with knife, and insert toothpicks in holes to keep them open during baking. Transfer cookie to cookie sheet and bake. After baking, remove toothpicks. Decorate around edge of heart with ruffling of pink frosting forced through paper cone, or pastry tube. In same way, write romantic message with frosting in center of heart. To finish the masterpiece, thread pink, white or blue ribbon through holes under "V" of heart, and tie a bow. Present this new kind of Valentine to the object of your affections.

Three On A Ribbon Valentine

Follow directions on package of cookie mix for Rolled Cookies. Cut three small cookies with heart cutter, or cut around cardboard heart pattern. Place the three cookies on two narrow white ribbons, the ribbons running parallel a little space apart. Roll the dough for these cookies a little thicker than usual to allow for pressing it well into the ribbons. Press the cookies into the ribbons. When the cookies have baked, they will be strung together on the ribbons. With pink frosting, inscribe the words "I Love You," one word to a cookie, so that the cookies hang on the ribbons and spell a Valentine message.

Pink Party Patties

You can make quick little Valentine party patties by following the directions for Refrigerator Cookies on a package of cookie mix. Slice the chilled dough, bake, and put the cookies together with Pink Peppermint Frosting. It's that simple.

Valentine Crispies

Make Refrigerator Cookies according to directions on package of cookie mix. Before baking, press into center of each cookie a candy Valentine motif such as a cupid, heart, or arrow, or outline edge of cookies with little candy hearts.

Make A Cookie Valentine With Basic Cookie Mix

All out of new ideas for Valentine? Try the cookie kind. Cookie Valentines will be done in a twinkling if you make them with a package of basic cookie mix from the grocery store. It takes only two minutes to blend.

Great Big Heart Cookie Valentine

Follow directions on package of cookie mix for Rolled Cookies. Cut a cardboard pattern of a big heart. Place over rolled dough, and cut around heart with small, sharp knife. Under "V" of heart, make two holes with knife, and insert toothpicks in holes to keep them open during baking. Transfer cookie to cookie sheet and bake. After baking, remove toothpicks. Decorate around edge of heart with ruffling of pink frosting forced through paper cone, or pastry tube. In same way, write romantic message with frosting in center of heart. To finish the masterpiece, thread pink, white or blue ribbon through holes under "V" of heart, and tie a bow. Present this new kind of Valentine to the object of your affections.

Three On A Ribbon Valentine

Follow directions on package of cookie mix for Rolled Cookies. Cut three small cookies with heart cutter, or cut around cardboard heart pattern. Place the three cookies on two narrow white ribbons, the ribbons running parallel a little space apart. Roll the dough for these cookies a little thicker than usual to allow for pressing it well into the ribbons. Press the cookies into the ribbons. When the cookies have baked, they will be strung together on the ribbons. With pink frosting, inscribe the words "I Love You," one word to a cookie, so that the cookies hang on the ribbons and spell a Valentine message.

Pink Party Patties

You can make quick little Valentine party patties by following the directions for Refrigerator Cookies on a package of cookie mix. Slice the chilled dough, bake, and put the cookies together with Pink Peppermint Frosting. It's that simple.

Valentine Crispies

Make Refrigerator Cookies according to directions on package of cookie mix. Before baking, press into center of each cookie a candy Valentine motif such as a cupid, heart, or arrow, or outline edge of cookies with little candy hearts.

To keep hot breads from cooling at the table, keep them covered with a napkin.

True Food Flavors Enjoyed In Unflavored Gelatine Base For Salads

By using unflavored gelatine in salads, one can pick a liquid or juice to dissolve the gelatine which will be preferred by the family. The true color and fresh flavor of the liquid will predominate as unflavored gelatine is odorless and colorless. Up to two cups of any liquid may be used to one envelope of unflavored gelatine, and count sugar as part of that liquid since it goes into solution.

Valentine Aspic

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 3½ cups cold tomato juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon celery salt
- ¼ teaspoon sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon Tabasco
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1 3-ounce package cream cheese

Soften gelatine in 1 cup of the cold tomato juice. Place over boiling water; stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add to remaining 2½ cups tomato juice; stir in salt, celery salt, sugar, Tabasco and lemon juice. Turn into a 4-cup heart-shaped mold; chill until firm. Unmold on cole slaw. Blend together milk and cream cheese; pack into an individual heart-shaped mold. Remove cheese carefully and place on top of aspic.

Yield: 8 servings.

BRIGHT and gay as Valentine greetings are these two salads for featuring on February 14. Unflavored gelatine is a basic ingredient in both, with tomato juice giving color and flavor to the larger mold and whole cranberry sauce to the individual salads. The recipes will be found elsewhere on this page.

Cranberry Relish Molds

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ½ cup cold water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 1-pound can whole cranberry sauce
- 1 cup diced celery

Soften gelatine in cold water. Place over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add salt and lemon juice. Stir into cranberry sauce. Mix in celery. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on cole slaw.

Yield: 6 servings.

Fresh Pear Coffee Cake

- 2 Anjou, Bosc or Comice pears
- 1½ cups all purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup shortening
- 1 egg
- ½ cup buttermilk
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Sift together flour, sugar, baking soda, baking powder and salt. Cut in the shortening until pieces are very small. Beat egg into buttermilk and add to dry ingredients. Mix only until all moisture is absorbed. The dough will be fairly stiff. Press lightly into an 8-inch pan. Peel and core fresh pears and slice in ½ inch sections. Cover top of coffee cake with pear slices. Crumble together brown sugar, cinnamon and butter and sprinkle over the pears. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 minutes.

Bake these Cherry Cookies for lunchbox and after-school treats. Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, ½ teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup brown sugar, ¾ cup new-type shortening and 1 egg. Mix 1 teaspoon vanilla extract with 2 tablespoons milk and add to flour mixture. Stir to combine ingredients, then beat 2 minutes. Stir in ½ cup chopped nuts, ½ cup chopped candied or maraschino cherries, and ½ cup coconut. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes. This recipe makes about 4½ dozen 2-inch cookies.

True Food Flavors Enjoyed In Unflavored Gelatine Base For Salads

By using unflavored gelatine in salads, one can pick a liquid or juice to dissolve the gelatine which will be preferred by the family. The true color and fresh flavor of the liquid will predominate as unflavored gelatine is odorless and colorless. Up to two cups of any liquid may be used to one envelope of unflavored gelatine, and count sugar as part of that liquid since it goes into solution.

Valentine Aspic

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- 3½ cups cold tomato juice
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon celery salt
- ¼ teaspoon sugar
- ⅛ teaspoon Tabasco
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1 3-ounce package cream cheese

Soften gelatine in 1 cup of the cold tomato juice. Place over boiling water; stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add to remaining 2½ cups tomato juice; stir in salt, celery salt, sugar, Tabasco and lemon juice. Turn into a 4-cup heart-shaped mold; chill until firm. Unmold on cole slaw. Blend together milk and cream cheese; pack into an individual heart-shaped mold. Remove cheese carefully and place on top of aspic.

Yield: 8 servings.

BRIGHT and gay as Valentine greetings are these two salads for featuring on February 14. Unflavored gelatine is a basic ingredient in both, with tomato juice giving color and flavor to the larger mold and whole cranberry sauce to the individual salads. The recipes will be found elsewhere on this page.

Cranberry Relish Molds

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- ½ cup cold water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 1-pound can whole cranberry sauce
- 1 cup diced celery

Soften gelatine in cold water. Place over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add salt and lemon juice. Stir into cranberry sauce. Mix in celery. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on cole slaw.

Yield: 6 servings.

Fresh Pear Coffee Cake

- 2 Anjou, Bosc or Comice pears
- 1½ cups all purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup shortening
- 1 egg
- ½ cup buttermilk
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Sift together flour, sugar, baking soda, baking powder and salt. Cut in the shortening until pieces are very small. Beat egg into buttermilk and add to dry ingredients. Mix only until all moisture is absorbed. The dough will be fairly stiff. Press lightly into an 8-inch pan. Peel and core fresh pears and slice in ½ inch sections. Cover top of coffee cake with pear slices. Crumble together brown sugar, cinnamon and butter and sprinkle over the pears. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 minutes.

Bake these Cherry Cookies for lunchbox and after-school treats. Sift together 2 cups sifted enriched flour, ½ teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 1 cup brown sugar, ¾ cup new-type shortening and 1 egg. Mix 1 teaspoon vanilla extract with 2 tablespoons milk and add to flour mixture. Stir to combine ingredients, then beat 2 minutes. Stir in ½ cup chopped nuts, ½ cup chopped candied or maraschino cherries, and ½ cup coconut. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes. This recipe makes about 4½ dozen 2-inch cookies.

A Smash Hit for Teen-agers

Starting in the morning with the postman's ring, St. Valentine's Day is an important one for teen-age maids. How exciting it is to receive a Valentine from a favorite swain, and how flattering to find several messages in the mail-box!

It's an ideal night for a party as very attractive decorations can be purchased at small cost. Those old-fashioned heart-shaped candies bearing sentimental messages provide fun. Tiny cakes, iced in pastel colors and decorated with candy hearts are simple to make and so good to serve.

A refreshing beverage is important. Ginger ale goes well with sandwiches and salads. If you are serving very light refreshments, you might like to make ice cream sodas the main attraction. A scoop of vanilla ice cream in a tall glass of ginger ale is delicious.

Here is a cherry soda that will delight your guests. The recipe is for one soda, so multiply the quantities by the number of guests. Spoons will be needed to get at the last bit of goodness.

Cherry Smash

Combine ⅓ cup chopped Bing cherries and ⅓ cup vanilla ice cream. Beat until very soft. Fill glass with ginger ale. Stir gently.

Better Breakfasts—Better Mornings

Better breakfasts are being promoted throughout the country to remind everyone of the importance of this first meal of the day. One good way for families to get into the bigger and better breakfast habit is to arise a little earlier. This helps to get into the mood for food and provides more time for eating it.

Another way to improve your family's breakfast eating habits is to plan menus with plenty of variety. Serve grape juice, pineapple juice, tomato juice as an alternate to orange juice. Choose a variety of breakfast breads—doughnuts, coffee cake, English muffins, novel b eads for toast. Never let the breakfast get dull—keep giving your family surprises along the way.

Last, but not least, serve a substantial main course for breakfast. Studies have shown that the protein foods for breakfast (meats and eggs) make the children more alert at school and help the man of the house put in some highly productive morning hours. Furthermore, the feeling of morning well being often affects the way the family feels the whole day through.

Sausage is a favorite for breakfast. Bacon adds interest to the breakfast eggs as well as to French toast and pancakes. If your family is not already in the better breakfast habit, try them out on a few tempting menus, with plenty of nourishing meat and eggs included.

Using enriched white bread in a reducing diet is the best way of making sure that the bread, like every other food in the diet, is providing the greatest possible amount of vitamins and minerals. Of course, all breads add protein and food energy to the diet. The fact that enriched bread does all of this more economically than any other food at the same time that it helps make a diet more enjoyable is the reason it has earned a place in the most modern reducing diets.

How long has it been since you've baked biscuits for the family? They're so simple to make and take such little time. There's nothing like hot biscuits straight from the oven, spread with melty butter or margarine.

Cambric Tea For Youngsters For Special Holiday Meals

THE family tea pot can help spread good cheer around the dinner table especially when you treat the whole family—big and little—to a special Strawberry Gelatin Heart Dessert. The youngsters will enjoy a "grown-up" beverage in the form of cambric tea (very, very weak tea with lots of milk).

More and more women are conscious of the fact that mealtime should be a pleasant and happy time for the family. Although it may not be possible or even wise to make every meal a special one, there are certain holidays that automatically lend themselves to such occasions. Valentine's Day is just such a holiday. Hearts and flowers and bright red colors are the general decor and can be easily brought to the table with very little effort or expense. For example, two heart-shaped molds made with strawberry or cherry red gelatin, with a layer of whipped cream between them, garnished with maraschino cherries and real-live leaves, can make mealtime a very special occasion.

A pot of hot tea is always welcome at these family affairs—especially if those February winds are howling right outside your door. So make it hot and make it hearty enough to give your family the pick-up they probably need after a busy day. The youngsters will enjoy cambric tea (very, very weak tea with lots of milk) at these special meals, because having "grown-up" food or drink brings them, emotionally at least, closer to the adult members of the family.

To make tea hot and hearty enough to really give you that pick-up at the end of the day, you need only remember three things: use wildly boiling water, enough tea (1 teaspoonful or 1 tea bag for every cup), and brew it 3-5 minutes by the clock. If you're in the habit of judging the strength of tea by the color, you might like to know that the tea experts advise us not to do so because many strong tea blends give a light color, and many weak tea blends produce a dark color. In other words, you can't judge a tea by the color of the brew . . . you should judge it by the clock.

VALENTINE HEART MOLD

(Makes 6-9 servings)

2 packages strawberry or cherry flavored gelatin
1 No. 2 can fruit cocktail, drained
2½-3 cups water
1 cup cream, whipped
Maraschino cherries

Prepare gelatin according to package directions using drained liquid from fruit cocktail and enough water to make 4 cups. Pour into two heart-shaped molds which have been rinsed in cold water. Set aside to cool. Divide fruit cocktail into two portions and add each to a mold. Place in refrigerator to set. Just before serving, whip cream. Turn one mold onto chilled platter. Spread top with whipped cream. Turn second mold out onto whipped cream. Garnish with maraschino cherries and additional whipped cream.

Use plain biscuits as a topping for meat and vegetable pies. Or use them as a base for creamed vegetables, meat and sea foods. "Dress up" plain biscuits by adding bits of green parsley, cheese, sausage meat, or onion to the dough.

. . . win a fabulous treasure
Free
Mink Stole

GET THAT Million Dollar LOOK . . .
FROM THE Million Dollar BEER!

That's right, again in February Old German Beer will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds and hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.

No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:

Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . ." Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

Joseph E. Boden Candidate For Office Of Court Clerk

Joseph E. Boden, of 777 McDonald Terrace, has announced his candidacy to succeed himself as clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, subject to the Republican primary in June.

Boden, who has served in the court clerk's office for 35 years, was appointed clerk of court shortly after the death of Robert Jackson on May 4, 1948 by former Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judges George Henderson and Joseph D. Mish.

In 1950 he ran for office as the Republican candidate for clerk of court without opposition from the Democrats.

Boden said he will continue to seek improvements in operating the important county office if he is elected. Some of the newer methods he has been instrumental in having installed at the Court House include a modern photostatic room for the recording of documents and a streamlined arrangement of the clerk's office for the convenience of the public. Modern steel counters and desks have been in use for about two years, replacing some old wooden office furniture dating back prior to 1900.

Born in Brunswick on August 5, 1893, he is a son of the late Joseph D. and Julia (Hartley) Boden, members of pioneer Allegany County families. His father was a B&O Railroad engineer and his mother was a former Allegany County school teacher.

Six months after his birth his parents moved back to Cumberland where they resided on Arch Street until their deaths. After graduating from Allegany County High School, Boden enrolled in the old Tri-State Business College.

Boden served two years with the Army during World War 1, received an honorable discharge in 1919 and went to work in the lands records office.

Boden, a lifelong Republican, belongs to Centre Street Methodist Church where he is a member of the Wesleyan Bible Class.

A 32d Degree Mason, he is a past master of Fort Cumberland Lodge 211, AF and AM, and past patron of McKinley Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

He joined Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, shortly after it was organized here. Boden also belongs to Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose and Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

He is married to the former Lucille Frantz, and is the father of two daughters, Mrs. Joann (Boden) Shaffer and Sandra Boden.

Five Area Men Join U. S. Marine Corps

Five area men have been enlisted for four years each in the United States Marine Corps at the local recruiting office in the Post Office building.

The group, which is now at Parris Island, S. C., for basic training, includes, James Leonard Clem, Cresaptown; Eugene Autry McNemar, Robert Andrew Lewis, and Gale Kermit Rawlings, all of Keyser, and Raymond Howard Ambrose, of Dawson.

Joseph E. Boden Candidate For Office Of Court Clerk

Joseph E. Boden, of 777 McDonald Terrace, has announced his candidacy to succeed himself as clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, subject to the Republican primary in June.

Boden, who has served in the court clerk's office for 35 years, was appointed clerk of court shortly after the death of Robert Jackson on May 4, 1948 by former Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judges George Henderson and Joseph D. Mish.

In 1950 he ran for office as the Republican candidate for clerk of court without opposition from the Democrats.

Boden said he will continue to seek improvements in operating the important county office if he is elected. Some of the newer methods he has been instrumental in having installed at the Court House include a modern photostatic room for the recording of documents and a streamlined arrangement of the clerk's office for the convenience of the public. Modern steel counters and desks have been in use for about two years, replacing some old wooden office furniture dating back prior to 1900.

Born in Brunswick on August 5, 1893, he is a son of the late Joseph D. and Julia (Hartley) Boden, members of pioneer Allegany County families. His father was a B&O Railroad engineer and his mother was a former Allegany County school teacher.

Six months after his birth his parents moved back to Cumberland where they resided on Arch Street until their deaths. After graduating from Allegany County High School, Boden enrolled in the old Tri-State Business College.

Boden served two years with the Army during World War 1, received an honorable discharge in 1919 and went to work in the lands records office.

Boden, a lifelong Republican, belongs to Centre Street Methodist Church where he is a member of the Wesleyan Bible Class.

A 32d Degree Mason, he is a past master of Fort Cumberland Lodge 211, AF and AM, and past patron of McKinley Chapter, Order of Eastern Star.

He joined Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, shortly after it was organized here. Boden also belongs to Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose and Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

He is married to the former Lucille Frantz, and is the father of two daughters, Mrs. Joann (Boden) Shaffer and Sandra Boden.

Five Area Men Join U. S. Marine Corps

Fabulous Harlem Globetrotters To Play Here March 13

Dapper Dans Will Sponsor Double Bill

House Of David Plays Hawaiians In Prelims; Special Show Carded

The fabulous Harlem Globetrotters, recognized as the top entertainers in the basketball world, will make their first appearance here in five years on the night of March 13, in the second game of a doubleheader to be staged on SS. Peter and Paul court under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club.

Four out-of-town teams will appear on the Saturday night program. In the opener set for 8 o'clock the House of David will play the Honolulu Surf Riders while in the main attraction at 9 o'clock the Harlem Globetrotters will oppose the Kansas City Monarchs.

Show During Intermission

During intermission there will be a special show featuring a match between table tennis champions and a juggling act. The same program will be repeated in Hagerstown on Sunday, March 14.

Arrangements for the appearance of the Globetrotters in Cumberland were made by the Dapper Dans through Vinnie Farrell, of Newark, N. J., internationally famous basketball referee, who has worked a number of games on the Trotters' tour.

A sellout is expected for the Globetrotters who have been playing to packed houses throughout the United States, South America and Europe in recent years. Abe Saperstein, of Chicago, is the owner of the famous negro aggregation of professional players.

Alex J. Schute, president of the Dapper Dan Club, has named a committee composed of Charles W. "Whip" Kreitzburg, Vincent T. Morrissey and William V. Keegan to handle the ticket sale and other arrangements for the double bill.

Beat Dukes In 1948

The last appearance of the Globetrotters in Cumberland was on December 26, 1948 when they defeated the Cumberland Dukes of the All-American Pro Basketball League, 73-68, in an overtime battle. The affair was marked by a lengthy argument over the final score of the regulation game. Several score books indicated that the Trotters had won by two points but the home scorer's book showed that the count was deadlocked. The Globetrotters were persuaded to return to the court and play an extra period and there was no doubt as to the final score. After that contest the negro team's manager vowed the Trotters would never return to Cumberland. Efforts to have the negro quint play here in recent years failed. When pro basketball was revived here following the war, the Globetrotters defeated the Amvets, during the 1946-47 season by the score of 58-45.

Shue Sets Record, Terps Win, 76-43

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 11 (AP) — Forward Gene Shue set a new season scoring record for Maryland tonight in leading the Terrapins to a lopsided 76-43 basketball victory over Washington and Lee.

The senior set-shot artist banged in 10 field goals and six free throws to run his season total for 22 games to 452. In doing so, he easily topped the 435 high individual player mark he set himself last season and still has six regular season games to add to the total.

Beall-Fort Hill, AHS-Valley, Bruce-Mt. Savage Will Clash

Games At Frostburg, 'Coney At Mt. Savage; Lions At Petersburg

Bruce and Allegany, the deadlocked leaders in the W.M.I. Basketball League, will play games away from home tonight when the Bulldogs of Westernport oppose Mt. Savage and the Campers face Valley High School.

A.H.S. and Bruce are setting the pace in the county circuit with 6-1 records and each team has three more games on its schedule. The leaders are scheduled to clash at Campobello Tuesday, February 16.

Seek Ninth Straight

Coach Walter Bowers' quint will be angling for its ninth consecutive win at Lonaconing tonight. The Campers hold an 88-45 decision over the Black Knights. Bruce will be gunning for its fourth successive victory over a Mt. Savage team that has dropped five in a row in the county loop. Bruce topped Mt. Savage in their series opener, 89-46.

The Fort Hill-Beall game at Frostburg is also important because both schools are involved with Allegany in the race for the county Class "A" crown which entitles the winner to vie in the Maryland District No. 1 tourney here next month. At the present time Allegany leads with a 2-1, record, Fort Hill is 1-1 and Beall 1-2. The Sentinels scored over Beall, 73-69, in an overtime contest here but the Mountaineers are expecting to avenge that loss tonight.

Lions Can Sew It Up

Piedmont High's Lions, victors in eleven straight P.V.C. games, can sew up the title in the 16-school circuit by defeating the Vikings at Petersburg tonight. If the Lions fail tonight they can sew it up next week. Coach William "Huck" Miers' quint took the opener from Petersburg by the score of 68-43.

Other P.V.C. games tonight are Moorefield at Romney, Elk Garden at Fort Ashby, West Virginia School for the Deaf at Franklin, Ridgeley at Keyser and Mathias at Wardensville.

Howard High of Piedmont entertains Ramer Memorial of Martinsburg at Potomac State College's gym in Keyser; Capon Bridge invades Paw Paw, Davis plays host to Tygarts Valley High of Mill Creek and Thomas, now on a six-game winning streak, tests the Parsons Panthers in Parsons.

Carver High is slated to play North Street in Hagerstown while Mel Henry's Hagerstown High cagers host Homer Brooks' Frederick High Cadets in the Hub City. Hagerstown scored its ninth win in a row yesterday at the expense of Eastern High in Washington, D. C., 61-36.

Potomac State College opens a two-day road trip tonight, meeting West Virginia Wesleyan at Buckhannon. The Catamounts face Alderson-Broaddus Saturday night in Philippi.

Bayard Cops 10th, Tops Harman High

Fulk, Sherman and Cosner with 13, 12 and 11 points sparked the Bayard scoring parade while Wymer was the "big gun" for the visitors with 20 tallies.

Dayton Enters NIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—A third strong independent team was added to the field for the National Invitation Basketball Tournament today when the University of Dayton accepted an invitation to play in the tournament for the third time in four years.

Previously Duquesne, one of two remaining undefeated major basketball teams, and Western Kentucky had accepted NIT invitations.

Panthers Suffer First Loss In 15 Contests On Morgantown Court

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 11—Parsons High School became the last team in the tri-state area to drop out of the undefeated basketball ranks tonight when the Panthers were given a 74-47 trouncing by Coach Homer Fizer's University High School cagers.

The Hilltoppers, victorious in 12 out of 14 games before tonight's tilt, ran up a 27-8 lead at the quarter, held the long end of a 47-26 score at the half and went in front by 27 points when the third quarter ended, 62-35.

Fabulous Harlem Globetrotters To Play Here March 13

House Of David Plays Hawaiians In Prelims; Special Show Carded

The fabulous Harlem Globetrotters, recognized as the top entertainers in the basketball world, will make their first appearance here in five years on the night of March 13, in the second game of a doubleheader to be staged on SS. Peter and Paul court under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club.

Four out-of-town teams will appear on the Saturday night program. In the opener set for 8 o'clock the House of David will play the Honolulu Surf Riders while in the main attraction at 9 o'clock the Harlem Globetrotters will oppose the Kansas City Monarchs.

Show During Intermission

During intermission there will be a special show featuring a match between table tennis champions and a juggling act. The same program will be repeated in Hagerstown on Sunday, March 14.

Arrangements for the appearance of the Globetrotters in Cumberland were made by the Dapper Dans through Vinnie Farrell, of Newark, N. J., internationally famous basketball referee, who has worked a number of games on the Trotters' tour.

A sellout is expected for the Globetrotters who have been playing to packed houses throughout the United States, South America and Europe in recent years. Abe Saperstein, of Chicago, is the owner of the famous negro aggregation of professional players.

Alex J. Schute, president of the Dapper Dan Club, has named a committee composed of Charles W. "Whip" Kreitzburg, Vincent T. Morrissey and William V. Keegan to handle the ticket sale and other arrangements for the double bill.

Beat Dukes In 1948

The last appearance of the Globetrotters in Cumberland was on December 26, 1948 when they defeated the Cumberland Dukes of the All-American Pro Basketball League, 73-68, in an overtime battle. The affair was marked by a lengthy argument over the final score of the regulation game. Several score books indicated that the Trotters had won by two points but the home scorer's book showed that the count was deadlocked. The Globetrotters were persuaded to return to the court and play an extra period and there was no doubt as to the final score. After that contest the negro team's manager vowed the Trotters would never return to Cumberland. Efforts to have the negro quint play here in recent years failed. When pro basketball was revived here following the war, the Globetrotters defeated the Amvets, during the 1946-47 season by the score of 58-45.

Beall-Fort Hill, AHS-Valley, Bruce-Mt. Savage Will Clash

Games At Frostburg, 'Coney At Mt. Savage; Lions At Petersburg

Bruce and Allegany, the deadlocked leaders in the W.M.I. Basketball League, will play games away from home tonight when the Bulldogs of Westernport oppose Mt. Savage and the Campers face Valley High School.

The Fort Hill-Beall game at Frostburg is also important because both schools are involved with Allegany in the race for the county Class "A" crown which entitles the winner to vie in the Maryland District No. 1 tourney here next month. At the present time Allegany leads with a 2-1, record, Fort Hill is 1-1 and Beall 1-2. Frank Selvy Is Hot After More Records

Shoots For Groat, O'Brien, Lacy Marks

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—There aren't going to be many major college basketball records intact by the time Furman's Frank Selvy finishes this year.

Already holder of the top all-time average for a single season and the most points ever scored in a three-year career, the Corbin, Ky. fireball now is hot after these additional marks:

1. The all-time career total of 2,154 made by Jim Lacy of Baltimore Loyola in four years. Selvy has 2,046 so far in his uncompleted three years, needs 109 to break.

2. Scoring average for a single season. Selvy himself set this with 29.5 last year. He is sure of a new all-time mark with his present average of 37.7.

3. Most points in one season. Johnny O'Brien of Seattle set this with 884 last year. Selvy has 717, needs 168.

4. Career scoring average. Clyde Lovellette of Kansas racked up this one with 24.5 for 77 games through 1952. Selvy now is averaging 30 points for 68 games.

Furman has seven regular season and at least two tournament games remaining on the schedule, so the shooting wizard should have no trouble rewriting the record book.

Chesapeake Stakes Set For April 10

LAUREL, Md., Feb. 11 (AP)—The $25,000-added Chesapeake Stakes one of the East's major 3-year-old races before the Kentucky Derby, will be raced at Laurel Park April 10.

The Chesapeake date completes the list of major 3-year-old races in the East prior to the Derby May 1. The others, all at Jamaica in New York are the $20,000 Experimental handicap April 10, the $30,000 Gotham April 17, and the $100,000 Wood Memorial April 24.

Giambra, Scortichini To Fight At Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Joey Giambra, who had an 11-fight winning streak broken a month ago, hopes to get another victory string started tomorrow night at Italo Scortichini's expense in Madison Square Garden.

The 22-year-old Buffalo, N. Y., middleweight is a 3-1 favorite to beat the 24-year-old Italian in the ten rounder. The bout, starting at 10 p.m. EST will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast.

Giambra hadn't lost a fight in 16 months and was ranked as the No. 5 160-pound contender when he was ambushed by comebacking Bobby Dykes in Miami Jan. 6. The decision defeat dropped him three pegs in the rankings.

Tom Chisari Quits

Chsari said he will retain his job as athletic director of American High School, a position he has held along with his M. C. C. coaching setup.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11—(INS)—Tony Martin heads straight for London in May to co-star with Jack Buchanan in "As Long As They're Happy." This is the stage musical in which Buchanan has been playing for over a year, and it will be made into a motion picture by Associated British Productions.

There will be three leading ladies—one American and two British belles.

While he's in London Tony will play at the Casino De Paris. Perhaps at the same time Cyd Charisse, his beautiful wife, will be in Italy starring in "Helen Of Troy." Yes, negotiations are still on.

You needn't be surprised if Pat Crowley gets one of the top femme roles in "Battle Cry" at Warners. Negotiations are now on for Pat. And I'd like to say right here that never have I had as many telephone calls to say that instead of being difficult Pat is one of the nicest girls on the Paramount lot.

So, it looks as if the information I received that success had gone to Pat's head is as untrue as Marilyn Monroe returning tomorrow to make "Pink Tights."

There was a lot of buzz-buzzing that Peter Lawford and Pat Kennedy, daughter of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, had eloped.

It's true that Peter went to San Francisco to meet Pat, who was on a trip around the world and suddenly decided she'd rather see Pete than travel. So her sister and Peter met the boat and the three of them went on to New York.

In my opinion, no matter how many denials there are, Peter will try to talk to papa and see if something cannot be done to remove the religious obstacles that now prevent this marriage.

Young Tommy Anson writes to ask me a question. He marked his envelope "private" five or six times, but I'm sure he won't really mind if I print his letter.

Tommy says: "I heard that Wild Bill Hickok is in love with Virginia Gray. Are you sure? Gee, I hope so. He is my favorite actor and she is so keen. She came to our Boy Scout meeting and helped us raise money for a bus. I sure hope Wild Bill likes her. Please tell him that she is a fine girl and we like her best. Thank you, Miss Parsons."

Well, Tommy, it's done. Now we shall see what Wild Bill (or Guy Madison, his real name) does about your letter.

Jean Louis, who designed those naked-appearing clothes for Marlene Dietrich, has done a terrific job for Judy Garland. She has plum colored tights and a shocking pink blouse for "A Star Is Born" and in Technicolor this is something.

20th has calculated it has already lost $100,000 by Marlon Brando's antics.

A different kind of tenant is Maggie McNamara and her husband, Dave Swift. They rented the apartment of Eddie Heyman, song writer .When they moved a mangum of champagne greeted him at the front door with a sign reading, "Welcome home — Maggie and Dave."

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Frank Selvy Is Hot After More Records

Shoots For Groat, O'Brien, Lacy Marks

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—There aren't going to be many major college basketball records intact by the time Furman's Frank Selvy finishes this year.

Already holder of the top all-time average for a single season and the most points ever scored in a three-year career, the Corbin, Ky. fireball now is hot after these additional marks:

1. The all-time career total of 2,154 made by Jim Lacy of Baltimore Loyola in four years. Selvy has 2,046 so far in his uncompleted three years, needs 109 to break.

2. Scoring average for a single season. Selvy himself set this with 29.5 last year. He is sure of a new all-time mark with his present average of 37.7.

3. Most points in one season. Johnny O'Brien of Seattle set this with 884 last year. Selvy has 717, needs 168.

4. Career scoring average. Clyde Lovellette of Kansas racked up this one with 24.5 for 77 games through 1952. Selvy now is averaging 30 points for 68 games.

5. Biggest two-year total held by Dick Groat of Duke with 1,540. Selvy needs only 86 points to pass this mark.

Furman has seven regular season and at least two tournament games remaining on the schedule, so the shooting wizard should have no trouble rewriting the record book.

The statistics, released today, are brought up through games of Wednesday night and show Selvy with no serious challenger for the year's individual offensive honors.

Chesapeake Stakes Set For April 10

LAUREL, Md., Feb. 11 (AP)—The $25,000-added Chesapeake Stakes one of the East's major 3-year-old races before the Kentucky Derby, will be raced at Laurel Park April 10.

Several Chesapeake winners have gone on to capture the Derby, the last being Citation in 1948.

The Chesapeake date completes the list of major 3-year-old races in the East prior to the Derby May 1. The others, all at Jamaica in New York are the $20,000 Experimental handicap April 10, the $30,000 Gotham April 17, and the $100,000 Wood Memorial April 24.

Giambra, Scortichini To Fight At Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Joey Giambra, who had an 11-fight winning streak broken a month ago, hopes to get another victory string started tomorrow night at Italo Scortichini's expense in Madison Square Garden.

The 22-year-old Buffalo, N. Y., middleweight is a 3-1 favorite to beat the 24-year-old Italian in the ten rounder. The bout, starting at 10 p.m. EST will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast.

Giambra hadn't lost a fight in 16 months and was ranked as the No. 5 160-pound contender when he was ambushed by comebacking Bobby Dykes in Miami Jan. 6. The decision defeat dropped him three pegs in the rankings.

Tom Chisari Quits

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11—(INS)—Tony Martin heads straight for London in May to co-star with Jack Buchanan in "As Long As They're Happy." This is the stage musical in which Buchanan has been playing for over a year, and it will be made into a motion picture by Associated British Productions.

There will be three leading ladies—one American and two British belles.

While he's in London Tony will play at the Casino De Paris. Perhaps at the same time Cyd Charisse, his beautiful wife, will be in Italy starring in "Helen Of Troy." Yes, negotiations are still on.

You needn't be surprised if Pat Crowley gets one of the top femme roles in "Battle Cry" at Warners. Negotiations are now on for Pat. And I'd like to say right here that never have I had as many telephone calls to say that instead of being difficult Pat is one of the nicest girls on the Paramount lot.

So, it looks as if the information I received that success had gone to Pat's head is as untrue as Marilyn Monroe returning tomorrow to make "Pink Tights."

There was a lot of buzz-buzzing that Peter Lawford and Pat Kennedy, daughter of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, had eloped.

It's true that Peter went to San Francisco to meet Pat, who was on a trip around the world and suddenly decided she'd rather see Pete than travel. So her sister and Peter met the boat and the three of them went on to New York.

In my opinion, no matter how many denials there are, Peter will try to talk to papa and see if something cannot be done to remove the religious obstacles that now prevent this marriage.

Young Tommy Anson writes to ask me a question. He marked his envelope "private" five or six times, but I'm sure he won't really mind if I print his letter.

Tommy says: "I heard that Wild Bill Hickok is in love with Virginia Gray. Are you sure? Gee, I hope so. He is my favorite actor and she is so keen. She came to our Boy Scout meeting and helped us raise money for a bus. I sure hope Wild Bill likes her. Please tell him that she is a fine girl and we like her best. Thank you, Miss Parsons."

Well, Tommy, it's done. Now we shall see what Wild Bill (or Guy Madison, his real name) does about your letter.

Rita Gam telephoned to say au revoir. She has finished her picture and is off for New York to spend some time with her husband, Sidney Lument, TV director.

Jean Louis, who designed those naked-appearing clothes for Marlene Dietrich, has done a terrific job for Judy Garland. She has plum colored tights and a shocking pink blouse for "A Star Is Born" and in Technicolor this is something.

20th has calculated it has already lost $100,000 by Marlon Brando's antics.

A different kind of tenant is Maggie McNamara and her husband, Dave Swift. They rented the apartment of Eddie Heyman, song writer. When they moved a mangum of champagne greeted him at the front door with a sign reading, "Welcome home — Maggie and Dave."

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

WHERE AN AXIOM ENDS

EVERY true axiom applies up to a certain point, but then has its limitations. That fits the dictum that in rubber bridge a declarer should never risk his contract for the sake of seeking an extra trick or tricks. But the axiom has nothing to do with the tactics appropriate to gaining extra tricks without any risk at all of the contract. Then the only question is whether or not the declarer is too lazy to work for the extra points. In the long run, a few more points per deal can mean the difference between being a slight winner instead of a slight loser against close competition.

	♠ J 10 4 ♥ K 6 ♦ A 9 7 6 3 2 ♣ Q 6
♠ None ♥ Q J 10 7 4 ♦ K J 8 5 ♣ K J 8 4	N W E S	♠ 9 7 3 ♥ 8 5 3 2 ♦ Q 4 ♣ A 10 9 7
	♠ A K Q 8 6 5 2 ♥ A 9 ♦ 10 ♣ 5 3 2

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
4 ♠

When the heart Q was led, South saw at a glance that his contract was certain, plus an extra, as he could ruff one of his clubs and lose only two. So he won with the heart K, led a club to the A, took the returned spade with the A, led a second club to the K, took the heart 10 return with the A and ruffed his last club with the spade J. He then spread his hand for the rest of the tricks.

Just a few moments of examination would have shown South how to have two extra tricks instead of one, with no risk of his contract. He could have won the heart lead with the A, scored the diamond A, ruffed a first diamond, led to the spade J, ruffed a second diamond, led to the spade 10, ruffed a third diamond, taken out East's last spade with the K, led to the heart K and then used the two established diamonds to discard two of his clubs. After giving up just one trick, in clubs, he would have had the spade A left for the final trick.

Whatever slight risk of an over-ruff there might have been in that procedure could have been prevented by merely using high trumps when the play got far enough along to require such a precaution.

	♠ K J 10 8 6 5 ♥ A K Q 8 ♦ Q 7 4 ♣ None

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South gets into a contract of 5-Hearts, how should he plan his play after West leads the heart 2, East discarding the club 10?

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for the kindness extended to us during the illness and following the death of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Anna L. Hott. We also thank the Rev. Daniel Klavuhn, those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.

Mr. S. W. Hott & Family.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our father Charles I. Seggie who passed away 4 years ago today, February 12, 1950.

Four years have passed away,
Since the one we loved was called away,
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our heart, Daddy is living still.
Missed by his children & grandchildren.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for the kindness extended to us during the illness and following the death of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Anna L. Hott. We also thank the Rev. Daniel Klavuhn, those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.
Mr. S. W. Hott & Family.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our father Charles I. Seggie who passed away 4 years ago today, February 12, 1950.
Four years have passed away,
Since the one we loved was called away,
God took him home, it was His will.
But in our heart, Daddy is living still.
Missed by his children & grandchildren.

Late Selling Tips Market Lower Following Advance

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP) — Late selling tipped the Stock Market slightly lower today at the close after most of the session had been spent with advancing prices.

New York Central was the star of the session with heavy buying at higher prices.

Demand for the rail stock was based on the belief that Robert R. Young and the management of the road were about to start a bitter proxy fight for control.

Young resigned recently as chairman of Chesapeake & Ohio with the intention of taking over control of New York Central. His first demand that he be elected chairman of New York Central was rejected yesterday by the board of directors.

The stock traded in a range of 227/8 to 23½ and closed at 23 up 1⅜. It was the day's most active issue on a volume of 103,600 shares. The total yesterday was 25,000 shares.

The market started out narrowly and then prices began to piek up here and there especially in the railroads. At the same time, however, there were many soft spots throughout the list that served as a drag on progress.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell back 10 cents at $114.50. It was up 10 cents yesterday. The industrial component was off 30 cents, the railroads were up 10 cents, and utilities remained unchanged.

There were 1,189 individual issues traded of which 421 advanced and 469 declined with 73 new highs and 2 new lows for 1953-54 registered during the day.

Volume amounted to 1,860,000 shares as compared with 1,790,000 shares traded yesterday.

Late Selling Tips Market Lower Following Advance

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP) — Late selling tipped the Stock Market slightly lower today at the close after most of the session had been spent with advancing prices.

Demand for the rail stock was based on the belief that Robert R. Young and the management of the road were about to start a bitter proxy fight for control.

Young resigned recently as chairman of Chesapeake & Ohio with the intention of taking over control of New York Central. His first demand that he be elected chairman of New York Central was rejected yesterday by the board of directors.

The stock traded in a range of 227/8 to 23½ and closed at 23 up 1⅜. It was the day's most active issue on a volume of 103,600 shares. The total yesterday was 25,000 shares.

The market started out narrowly and then prices began to piek up here and there especially in the railroads. At the same time, however, there were many soft spots throughout the list that served as a drag on progress.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell back 10 cents at $114.50. It was up 10 cents yesterday. The industrial component was off 30 cents, the railroads were up 10 cents, and utilities remained unchanged.

There were 1,189 individual issues traded of which 421 advanced and 469 declined with 73 new highs and 2 new lows for 1953-54 registered during the day.

Volume amounted to 1,860,000 shares as compared with 1,790,000 shares traded yesterday.

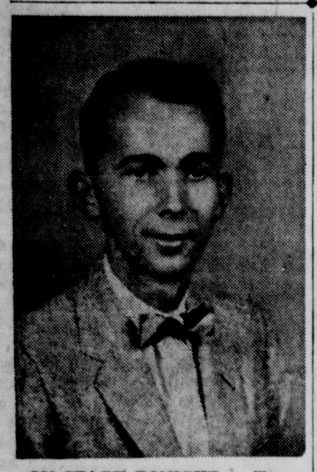
Authorities Query Dead Tot's Family

Perform Autopsy On Rephann Baby

Parents and other members of the family of a four-month-old baby girl who was found dead in a semi-filled bathtub yesterday morning were questioned yesterday afternoon in the State's Attorney's office.



ON STAGE TONIGHT — Tom Hutchinson, instructor at Beall High School, Frostburg, plays the part of a big-time cowboy movie star, slightly past his prime, in "Boy Meets Girl" which is to be staged today at 8:15 p. m. in Allegany High School Auditorium by the Rec Department's Civic Theatre. He is a graduate of Allegany High School and of the University of Maryland.

Authorities listed the dead child as Karen Gail Rephann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Earl Rephann, RD 3, Bowman's Addition.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said the mother, Mrs. Shirley Alice (Geary) Rephann, 23, is being held in custody at the Allegany County Infirmary.

No Charges Filed

No charges have been filed by authorities, but Fletcher said they will continue investigation into the cause of death. He added the State's Attorney's Office has not yet received an official report concerning the cause of death.

Authorities reported that the father, Donald Earl Rephann, a machinist at the Western Maryland Railway shops at Ridgeley, discovered the baby dead in the bathtub when he returned from work yesterday morning.

They added the father had noticed the child's empty crib and had begun a search for his daughter. Authorities said the mother and another three-year-old daughter were in the house at the time the father returned from working the night shift.

Appear Voluntarily

Police said the father and several other members of the family appeared voluntarily for questioning yesterday. Fletcher declined to give details learned during the questioning

He would not say why the woman was being held or give the circumstances of the death of the baby. He also declined to give the mother's explanation as to why the baby was in the tub when her husband returned from work.

It was learned last night that an autopsy had been performed on the child's body yesterday, but Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said he had not yet made out his report and declined to say anything on the matter.

Died At 3:30 A. M.

However, reliable sources indicated the time of death had been set at approximately 3:30 a. m.

Besides her parents, the child is survived by one sister, Valerie Jean Rephann, 3, at home; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Geary, Zihlman; and paternal grandmother, Mrs. Daisy Rosenmerkel, this city.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home. Graveside services at Eckhart Cemetery will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. with Rev. W. H. Grose, pastor of Eckhart Methodist Church, officiating.

Whitworth's Tax Redistribution Bill Stirs Fight

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 11 (AP) — A pitched battle shaped up today over a proposal to take some taxes away from Baltimore City and three counties and redistribute them to the 19 others.

The change of 53 words would result in the redistribution of well over one million dollars of taxes. Many legislators didn't realize this until a breakdown of the redistribution appeared today.

Whitworth would change what amounts to the personal property tax on corporations. They now pay their taxes where their home office is located although they have facilities scattered throughout the state. Whitworth would have them pay to the counties or cities where the property is located.

"Why should I pay a tax on my telephone in Allegany County to Baltimore City?" asked Whitworth.

Since most of the corporations involved have their headquarters in Baltimore, the city stands to lose $1,159,000 according to estimates furnished by the State Tax Commission.

Besides Baltimore City, Frederick would lose an estimated $101,500, Wicomico, $67,600 and Garrett $1,000.

Charles, $2,600; Dorchester, $71,300; Harford ,$20,000; Howard, $4,800; Kent, $2,500; Montgomery, $94,000; Prince Georges, $87,300.

The Weather

Brief snow flurries last night and a rapid drop in the temperature marked yesterday's cloudy and coolish day following the bright sunny weather experienced 24 hours previously. High for the day at Constitution Park weather bureau was a recorded 45 degrees while the low dipped to 28. At 7:30 p. m. the mercury also registered 28 degrees and the humidity was 63 per cent, a sharp rise from the previous day. Unofficially the temperatures dropped from 47 degrees yesterday afternoon to 27 last night in a matter of five hours. Today's forecast is cloudy and much colder with continued snow flurries.

Beginning Drivers Damage City Park

Street Department officials reported yesterday that property is being damaged at Constitution Park by persons who are learning to drive.

The damage includes a post which was knocked over, bark stripped from trees, and torn sod.

Officials said the park is a poor place to learn to drive, since roads are none too wide and have fairly steep grades.

Vandegrift Bids Low Of $489,600 On School Job

Flintstone Project Decision Deferred

A low bid of $489,600 was submitted yesterday afternoon by the John I. Vandergrift Company, local contractors, on the proposed addition to the Flintstone School but that was a larger chunk of the county's $3,500,000 school construction program than Superintendent of Schools, Ralph R. Webster, had anticipated paying for the job.

Webster had hoped to build and equip the Flintstone School for about $500,000. Some $25,490 out of that total already has been spent for a new sewage disposal system to serve both the existing and the proposed structures. A rough estimate indicates that it will cost about $60,000 more to equip the addition.

Decision Deferred

A decision on whether to accept the Vandegrift bid will be deferred until the Allegany County Board of Education meets Tuesday, February 23.

The Vandegrift bid was some six and seven-tenths per cent lower than the next lowest bid of $524,447 submitted by the George F. Hazelwood Company. Other bidders were the George Construction Company, $541,989 and Alliance Contractors, Inc., of Baltimore, $563,365.

The Flintstone job cost could be lowered $13,100 to $476,500 if the Board of Education accepts four alternates on which bids also were received yesterday.

Economies Proposed

These alternates, and the savings, include $3,600 if no acoustical tile is used in the ceiling of the combination auditorium-gymnasium, $1,400 if dome plastic skylights are eliminated from the corridors, $6,600 if concrete block is substituted for glazed tile throughout the building, and $1,500 if no walkway is constructed between the addition and the vocational agriculture shop building completed last summer.

Included in the planned Flintstone addition are four new classrooms, an office suite for the principal and other officials, a new cafeteria and kitchen, a new boiler room to serve both the old and new buildings, a home economics department and the walkway linking the addition and the shop building.

Court Must Untangle Boat Dispute

A confusing chain of ownership of "My Holiday," a 17-foot inboard motor boat used on Deep Creek Lake, was revealed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court as Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris heard the evidence in a $1,000 suit over the boat's ownership.

Robert Kern of McDonald, Pa., through Attorney Stephen R. Pagenhardt of Oakland, sued Francis Cosgrove, 89 Spring Street, Frostburg, for $1,000, charging that the latter had converted "My Holiday" to his own use illegally. Attorneys Walter C. Capper and Donald W. Mason represented Cosgrove.

At the trial it was revealed that Kern and Howard Weter, who lived near McDonald, together assembled the boat and shared in its ownership. They used it for a time on Deep Creek Lake. Subsequently, Weter sold the boat to a Robert McCann after representing himself as sole owner of the boat.

McCann, thinking he had sole ownership of the boat, subsequently authorized the operators of a boat club on Deep Creek Lake to sell it for him. They sold it to Cosgrove for about $900, which was considered a fair price. Kern never got any money for the boat, although Cosgrove did pay for it.

Judge Harris said he would think over the confusing case and would write an opinion settling the ownership of "My Holiday."

Garrett Forest Area Will Be Hunting Ground

Free Lease Granted By Friendsville Man

Nearly 4,000 acres of Garrett County forest land comprising some of the finest deer hunting territory in Maryland has been turned over to the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission to be used as public hunting lands.

Blain Frantz, Friendsville, has leased lands in the Salt Block and White Rock Section of western Garrett County to the commission for 10 years, without charge, according to Dale H. Arner, Frostburg, wildlife field superintendent for the commission.

The agreement allows the commission to administer the land, with permission to cut and clear 10 per cent of the total area for seeding of grasses and legumes for wildlife administration.

The management division of the commission has sent a crew into the new public hunting area to cut second growth trees of poor commercial value for emergency browse for a large herd of deer which has been found in the area.

Arner said the tract also contains two of the better trout streams in the state.

Frantz told Arner that he felt that opening of such areas would give hunters some place to hunt, rather than ganging up on nearby farm land.

Disrict Warden Theodore Thoerig and Arner have been contacting owners of large tracts of forest lands in recent months in an effort to buy or lease the areas to the Game and Inland Fish Commission to be used as public hunting lands.

Until recently, the Green Ridge Forest was theh only public hunting area in Allegany County.

Game and Inland Fish Commission officials, however, recently acquired about 4,600 acres of a 5,000-acre tract on the east side of Dans Mountain, ranging from Pinto to McCoole, which will be developed into public hunting grounds and game sanctuaries.

H. C. Swearingen, Vice President, Sales Manager At Kelly Plant To Retire March 1

To Move To New Home At Charlotte, N. C.

BY LARRY T. GRECO
News Staff Writer

Henry C. Swearingen, 571 Patterson Avenue, vice president and sales manager for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company here since 1936, will retire March 1 and will move to Charlotte, N. C.

Actually, Swearingen has been with the Kelly-Springfield firm for nearly 40 years, having begun with the company in 1914 as a jobber covering Colorado, New Mexico, West Texas and Old Mexico.

Traveled In West

Soon he was made branch manager and organized and opened a new factory for the company in El Paso, Texas. Two years later in 1921, Swearingen was sent to Omaha, Neb., where he opened another branch factory for the firm.

The ever-traveling Swearingen moved again in 1923, this time to Chicago to take over the company's branch plant there as district manager, and then in 1927, he was made the company's division manager for the entire Middle West.

The local man was made vice president and general sales manager in 1934 at New York where the firm has its main offices. He has kept that position to the present time. He was sent to Cumberland in 1936.

Swearingen has been in the marketing and sales division of the Kelly-Springfield Company close to 40 years, and has mentally recorded a great portion of the firm's history.

Born On Plantation

Following his retirement next month, he and his wife, Mrs. Helen (Smails) Swearingen, whom he married while in Omaha in 1923, will move to their new home in Charlotte. The home is now being built, and they will be joined by their son, Garrett Van Swearingen, who is at present a freshman at the University of Maryland.

When he moves to Charlotte, Swearingen will be near his home state, He was born on a plantation in the northwestern part of South Carolina.

However, that is not the whole story of the Kelly official's life. Under the dignified and friendly personality that most Cumberlanders know lies another Swearingen that has experienced many interesting, hair-raising and extraordinary adventures.

Swearingen was first introduced to the wild and rough life of the early West at the age of eight when his family moved to El Paso, Texas.

In 1904, at the age of 13, he went to work on a ranch in Mexico and later to surveying work in isolated sections of that country. For four years he represented the Mine and Smeltering Company in Mexico, working in the Metallurgical Department, which dealt with heavy chemicals and equipment used in the analysis and reduction of gold, silver and copper ores.

Many Experiences

Swearingen's experiences during his youthful period in the Southwest and in Mexico are too numerous and lengthy to record here, but they have been put down in an autobiography written by the Kelly man.

In that period Swearingen rode lonely trails on mule, saw massacres of Americans and Chinese and the slaughter of children during the Mexican revolutions. He was in Mexico during the beginning of the Modero Revolution when the 37-year-old regime of Porfirio Diaz was overthorwn by Modero.

In addition, he has known personally some of the revolutionary leaders which Hollywood has dramatized again and again. Among them were Zapata and Pan-

City Police And Fire Departments Receive New Radio Equipment

Two-Way Unit Will Be Installed In Fire Chief's Car

New radio equipment for the City Police and Fire departments arrived here yesterday and is being installed.

Commissioner John J. Long last night said it will replace the equipment which has been in use by the Police Department for about 15 years.

Long pointed out that for the first time the Fire Department will have constant contact with police headquarters since a two-way radio unit is to be installed in Chief Virgil A. Parker's car.

The addition of the equipment to the fire chief's car will be beneficial when telephone service is not available and also when additional fire-fighting equipment is required.

Chief Parker has had experience in aircraft radio and expects to get instructions on the use of the new set as soon as it is installed.

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn pointed out that the new sets will be installed in the four cruisers of the department as well as in the patrol wagon.

Work on installing the new equipment at Police Headquarters got under way yesterday afternoon. John Ridgeway is in charge of the work and George Sokol Jr. will maintain the equipment, Chief Flynn added. He pointed out the present equipment had been in use for about 15 years and had "run its course."

Commissioner Long said that in the future it is hoped to have one of the fire trucks at each of the four stations equipped with two-way radio service with the nerve center located at Central Station.

He said he has conferred with William G. Barger, Allegany County Director for Civil Defense and it is hoped to have all volunteer fire companies linked with the city department in conjunction with the CD program.

Long said the old equipment is being traded in and that the transmitter now in use will be retained by the city for probable use in the fire department.

Leaking Gas Is Ignited On Shriver Ave.

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company is renewing a line along the 700 block of Shriver Avenue and firemen said the blaze apparently was caused when the leaking gas was ignited by a warning flare in the immediate area.

Firemen from East Side were called at 5:40 p. m. and extinguished the fire with the use of ansul powder. The gas company had men on the job repairing the leak shortly after it was discovered. No other damage was reported.

Lepley Receives 10-Year Sentence In Penitentiary

Judge Harris Cites His Previous Record

A 10-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary was meted out to Eugene Lepley, 30, of 616 North Centre Street, by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday afternoon.

Lepley was found guilty Tuesday afternoon of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to rob Joseph A. Ryan of Ellerslie of three raccoons. The offense allegedly occurred last November 25.

The defendant showed little emotion when Judge Harris passed sentence after some brief remarks during which he noted that Lepley had a police record that began in 1935 when he was only about 11 years old, and included a session at the State Training School, appearances in Police Court and finally a number of crimes of a serious nature.

Several Convictions

Judge Harris observed that in 1947 the North Centre Street resident was convicted of assault with intent to kill, and subsequently was committed to a mental institution.

"Apparently you weren't there very long because the record shows that in January 1948, you were convicted in Romney, W. Va., of burglary," the judge continued. Again in 1949, was charged with assault with intent to kill and received one year in the Maryland House of Correction. In 1951, the defendant was charged with carrying a dangerous and deadly weapon.

"The record shows that you are emotionally unstable and at times dangerously violent," Judge Harris asserted.

"Your family also concocted an alibi which the jury did not believe and which I do not believe," the judge added. At his trial, Lepley's mother, sister and nephew all testified that he was at home in bed at the time he was said to have assaulted Ryan. However, his estranged wife testified that she had gone hunting with him on the night of November 25 and had heard him threaten the man, who later turned out to be Ryan.

Attorney Asks Leniency

In conclusion, Judge Harris observed that the statute sets a maximum penalty for assault with intent to rob at 20 years because that crime is "only one step away from murder."

He remarked that the people of Allegany County deserve to be protected and the sentence should retard others from committing the same offense. He stipulated that the 10-year sentence should start from November 30, the day upon which Lepley was first lodged in jail.

Before sentence was passed, George R. Hughes Jr., one of Lepley's attorneys, asked Judge Harris to bear in mind that no harm was done to Ryan nor was any of his property taken away. Also present when sentence was passed was Edwin M. Horchler, Lepley's other attorney, and Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty, but they had nothing to say.

Deputies in the office of Sheriff Edward R. Muir are planning to transport Lepley to the penitentiary in Baltimore today.

Heart Campaign Organization Is Completed

Completing the campaign organization for the fund campaign of the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association, Robert E. Barnard, chairman, yesterday announced four more committee chairmen.

Ernest B. Treat, county tax collector, was named chairman for Cumberland. Joseph F. Garlitz of the Dairy Workers Union was named chairman for Organized Labor. Mike Hurst of WTBO was named chairman for radio publicity and presentations F. Allen Weatherholt of The Cumberland News was named chairman of newspaper publicity.

David Kauffman, association president, said last night he had conferred with the chairman and some of his committeemen, and the campaign is getting under way satisfactorily. Letters are being sent over the weekend to many individuals and groups who are interested in the heart program. Other activities are being arranged.

Barnard said the Heart Association is sponsoring an excellent program of service in the county, and that funds must be raised if the clinic program is to be continued and the visiting nurse is to be retained throughout the year.

There is a great need here for this program, he said, and reminded that heart disease is the greatest affliction and killer known to mankind.

In addition to the local program of care, education, treatment and assistance, some of the funds are also used for research and development of cures and preventatives of heart conditions and rheumatic fever.

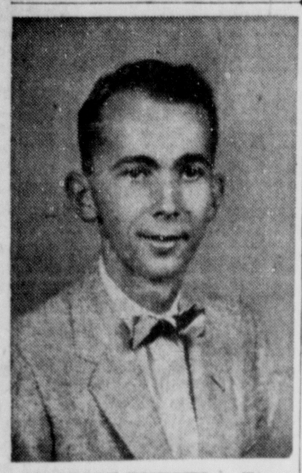
Authorities Query Dead Tot's Family

Perform Autopsy On Rephann Baby

Parents and other members of the family of a four-month-old baby girl who was found dead in a semi-filled bathtub yesterday morning were questioned yesterday afternoon in the State's Attorney's office.



ON STAGE TONIGHT — Tom Hutchinson, instructor at Beall High School, Frostburg, plays the part of a big-time cowboy movie star, slightly past his prime, in "Boy Meets Girl" which is to be staged today at 8:15 p. m. in Allegany High School Auditorium by the Rec Department's Civic Theatre. He is a graduate of Allegany High School and of the University of Maryland.

Authorities listed the dead child as Karen Gail Rephann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Earl Rephann, RD 3, Bowman's Addition.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said the mother, Mrs. Shirley Alice (Geary) Rephann, 23, is being held in custody at the Allegany County Infirmary.

No Charges Filed

No charges have been filed by authorities, but Fletcher said they will continue investigation into the cause of death. He added the State's Attorney's Office has not yet received an official report concerning the cause of death.

Authorities reported that the father, Donald Earl Rephann, a machinist at the Western Maryland Railway shops at Ridgeley, discovered the baby dead in the bathtub when he returned from work yesterday morning.

They added the father had noticed the child's empty crib and had begun a search for his daughter. Authorities said the mother and another three-year-old daughter were in the house at the time the father returned from working the night shift.

Appear Voluntarily

Police said the father and several other members of the family appeared voluntarily for questioning yesterday. Fletcher declined to give details learned during the questioning

He would not say why the woman was being held or give the circumstances of the death of the baby. He also declined to give the mother's explanation as to why the baby was in the tub when her husband returned from work.

It was learned last night that an autopsy had been performed on the child's body yesterday, but Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, said he had not yet made out his report and declined to say anything on the matter.

Died At 3:30 A. M.

However, reliable sources indicated the time of death had been set at approximately 3:30 a. m.

Besides her parents, the child is survived by one sister, Valerie Jean Rephann, 3, at home; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Geary, Zihlman; and paternal grandmother, Mrs. Daisy Rosenmerkel, this city.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home. Graveside services at Eckhart Cemetery will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. with Rev. W. H. Grose, pastor of Eckhart Methodist Church, officiating.

Whitworth's Tax Redistribution Bill Stirs Fight

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 11 (AP) — A pitched battle shaped up today over a proposal to take some taxes away from Baltimore City and three counties and redistribute them to the 19 others.

The General Assembly became excited when legislators caught up with the meaning of an innocent looking bill introduced last Friday by Del. Whitworth (R-Allegany).

The bill takes out 13 words and inserts 66 in a section of the tax laws relating to utilities, savings banks, building & loan associations, trust companies and railroads.

The change of 53 words would result in the redistribution of well over one million dollars of taxes. Many legislators didn't realize this until a breakdown of the redistribution appeared today.

Whitworth would change what amounts to the personal property tax on corporations. They now pay their taxes where their home office is located although they have facilities scattered throughout the state. Whitworth would have them pay to the counties or cities where the property is located.

"Why should I pay a tax on my telephone in Allegany County to Baltimore City?" asked Whitworth.

Since most of the corporations involved have their headquarters in Baltimore, the city stands to lose $1,159,000 according to estimates furnished by the State Tax Commission.

Besides Baltimore City, Frederick would lose an estimated $101,500, Wicomico, $67,600 and Garrett $1,000.

Charles, $2,600; Dorchester, $71,300; Harford ,$20,000; Howard, $4,800; Kent, $2,500; Montgomery, $94,000; Prince Georges, $87,300.

The Weather

Brief snow flurries last night and a rapid drop in the temperature marked yesterday's cloudy and coolish day following the bright sunny weather experienced 24 hours previously. High for the day at Constitution Park weather bureau was a recorded 45 degrees while the low dipped to 28. At 7:30 p. m. the mercury also registered 28 degrees and the humidity was 63 per cent, a sharp rise from the previous day. Unofficially the temperatures dropped from 47 degrees yesterday afternoon to 27 last night in a matter of five hours. Today's forecast is cloudy and much colder with continued snow flurries.

Vandegrift Bids Low Of $489,600 On School Job

Flintstone Project Decision Deferred

A low bid of $489,600 was submitted yesterday afternoon by the John I. Vandergrift Company, local contractors, on the proposed addition to the Flintstone School but that was a larger chunk of the county's $3,500,000 school construction program than Superintendent of Schools, Ralph R. Webster, had anticipated paying for the job.

Webster had hoped to build and equip the Flintstone School for about $500,000. Some $25,490 out of that total already has been spent for a new sewage disposal system to serve both the existing and the proposed structures. A rough estimate indicates that it will cost about $60,000 more to equip the addition.

Decision Deferred

A decision on whether to accept the Vandegrift bid will be deferred until the Allegany County Board of Education meets Tuesday, February 23.

The Vandegrift bid was some six and seven-tenths per cent lower than the next lowest bid of $524,447 submitted by the George F. Hazelwood Company. Other bidders were the George Construction Company, $541,989 and Alliance Contractors, Inc., of Baltimore, $563,365.

The Flintstone job cost could be lowered $13,100 to $476,500 if the Board of Education accepts four alternates on which bids also were received yesterday.

Economies Proposed

These alternates, and the savings, include $3,600 if no acoustical tile is used in the ceiling of the combination auditorium-gymnasium, $1,400 if dome plastic skylights are eliminated from the corridors, $6,600 if concrete block is substituted for glazed tile throughout the building, and $1,500 if no walkway is constructed between the addition and the vocational agriculture shop building completed last summer.

Included in the planned Flintstone addition are four new classrooms, an office suite for the principal and other officials, a new cafeteria and kitchen, a new boiler room to serve both the old and new buildings, a home economics department and the walkway linking the addition and the shop building.

Court Must Untangle Boat Dispute

A confusing chain of ownership of "My Holiday," a 17-foot inboard motor boat used on Deep Creek Lake, was revealed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court as Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris heard the evidence in a $1,000 suit over the boat's ownership.

Robert Kern of McDonald, Pa., through Attorney Stephen R. Pagenhardt of Oakland, sued Francis Cosgrove, 89 Spring Street, Frostburg, for $1,000, charging that the latter had converted "My Holiday" to his own use illegally. Attorneys Walter C. Capper and Donald W. Mason represented Cosgrove.

At the trial it was revealed that Kern and Howard Weter, who lived near McDonald, together assembled the boat and shared in its ownership. They used it for a time on Deep Creek Lake. Subsequently, Weter sold the boat to a Robert McCann after representing himself as sole owner of the boat.

McCann, thinking he had sole ownership of the boat, subsequently authorized the operators of a boat club on Deep Creek Lake to sell it for him. They sold it to Cosgrove for about $900, which was considered a fair price. Kern never got any money for the boat, although Cosgrove did pay for it.

Judge Harris said he would think over the confusing case and would write an opinion settling the ownership of "My Holiday."

Garrett Forest Area Will Be Hunting Ground

Free Lease Granted By Friendsville Man

Nearly 4,000 acres of Garrett County forest land comprising some of the finest deer hunting territory in Maryland has been turned over to the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission to be used as public hunting lands.

Blain Frantz, Friendsville, has leased lands in the Salt Block and White Rock Section of western Garrett County to the commission for 10 years, without charge, according to Dale H. Arner, Frostburg, wildlife field superintendent for the commission.

The agreement allows the commission to administer the land, with permission to cut and clear 10 per cent of the total area for seeding of grasses and legumes for wildlife administration.

The management division of the commission has sent a crew into the new public hunting area to cut second growth trees of poor commercial value for emergency browse for a large herd of deer which has been found in the area.

Arner said the tract also contains two of the better trout streams in the state.

Frantz told Arner that he felt that opening of such areas would give hunters some place to hunt, rather than ganging up on nearby farm land.

District Warden Theodore Thoerig and Arner have been contacting owners of large tracts of forest lands in recent months in an effort to buy or lease the areas to the Game and Inland Fish Commission to be used as public hunting lands.

Cooperation of other conservation minded land owners, he added, would give sportsmen of the state a hunting paradise.

Land owners interested in selling or leasing lands for public hunting are urged to contact Arner at 39 West College Avenue, Frostburg.

Until recently, the Green Ridge Forest was theh only public hunting area in Allegany County.

Game and Inland Fish Commission officials, however, recently acquired about 4,600 acres of a 5,000-acre tract on the east side of Dans Mountain, ranging from Pinto to McCoole, which will be developed into public hunting grounds and game sanctuaries.

H. C. Swearingen, Vice President, Sales Manager At Kelly Plant To Retire March 1

To Move To New Home At Charlotte, N. C.

BY LARRY T. GRECO
News Staff Writer

Henry C. Swearingen, 571 Patterson Avenue, vice president and sales manager for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company here since 1936, will retire March 1 and will move to Charlotte, N. C.

Actually, Swearingen has been with the Kelly-Springfield firm for nearly 40 years, having begun with the company in 1914 as a jobber covering Colorado, New Mexico, West Texas and Old Mexico.

Traveled In West

Soon he was made branch manager and organized and opened a new factory for the company in El Paso, Texas. Two years later in 1921, Swearingen was sent to Omaha, Neb., where he opened another branch factory for the firm.

The ever-traveling Swearingen moved again in 1923, this time to Chicago to take over the company's branch plant there as district manager, and then in 1927, he was made the company's division manager for the entire Middle West.

The local man was made vice president and general sales manager in 1934 at New York where the firm has its main offices. He has kept that position to the present time. He was sent to Cumberland in 1936.

Swearingen has been in the marketing and sales division of the Kelly-Springfield Company close to 40 years, and has mentally recorded a great portion of the firm's history.

Born On Plantation

Following his retirement next month, he and his wife, Mrs. Helen (Smails) Swearingen, whom he married while in Omaha in 1923, will move to their new home in Charlotte. The home is now being built, and they will be joined by their son, Garrett Van Swearingen, who is at present a freshman at the University of Maryland.

When he moves to Charlotte, Swearingen will be near his home state, He was born on a plantation in the northwestern part of South Carolina.

However, that is not the whole story of the Kelly official's life. Under the dignified and friendly personality that most Cumberlanders know lies another Swearingen that has experienced many interesting, hair-raising and extraordinary adventures.

Swearingen was first introduced to the wild and rough life of the early West at the age of eight when his family moved to El Paso, Texas.

In 1904, at the age of 13, he went to work on a ranch in Mexico and later to surveying work in isolated sections of that country. For four years he represented the Mine and Smeltering Company in Mexico, working in the Metallurgical Department, which dealt with heavy chemicals and equipment used in the analysis and reduction of gold, silver and copper ores.

Many Experiences

Swearingen's experiences during his youthful period in the Southwest and in Mexico are too numerous and lengthy to record here, but they have been put down in an autobiography written by the Kelly man.

In that period Swearingen rode lonely trails on mule, saw massacres of Americans and Chinese and the slaughter of children during the Mexican revolutions. He was in Mexico during the beginning of the Modero Revolution when the 37-year-old regime of Porfirio Diaz was overthorwn by Modero.

In addition, he has known personally some of the revolutionary leaders which Hollywood has dramatized again and again. Among them were Zapata and Pan-

City Police And Fire Departments Receive New Radio Equipment

Two-Way Unit Will Be Installed In Fire Chief's Car

New radio equipment for the City Police and Fire departments arrived here yesterday and is being installed.

Commissioner John J. Long last night said it will replace the equipment which has been in use by the Police Department for about 15 years.

Long pointed out that for the first time the Fire Department will have constant contact with police headquarters since a two-way radio unit is to be installed in Chief Virgil A. Parker's car.

The addition of the equipment to the fire chief's car will be beneficial when telephone service is not available and also when additional fire-fighting equipment is required.

Chief Parker has had experience in aircraft radio and expects to get instructions on the use of the new set as soon as it is installed.

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn pointed out that the new sets will be installed in the four cruisers of the department as well as in the patrol wagon.

Work on installing the new equipment at Police Headquarters got under way yesterday afternoon. John Ridgeway is in charge of the work and George Sokol Jr. will maintain the equipment, Chief Flynn added. He pointed out the present equipment had been in use for about 15 years and had "run its course."

Commissioner Long said that in the future it is hoped to have one of the fire trucks at each of the four stations equipped with two-way radio service with the nerve center located at Central Station.

He said he has conferred with William G. Barger, Allegany County Director for Civil Defense and it is hoped to have all volunteer fire companies linked with the city department in conjunction with the CD program.

Long said the old equipment is being traded in and that the transmitter now in use will be retained by the city for probable use in the fire department.
